WOOLLY APHIS ON APPLE TREES.

ONE of the WORST pests that attack apple trees particularly is the American Blight, or WOOLLY APHIS. IF THIS BLIGHT IS NOT TACKLED when it makes its first appearance, and is allowed a season or two to get ahead, IT WILL TAKE SOME SHIFTING.

DO NOT WAIT—SPRAY NOW.
The following extract from the columns of the S.M. Herald:—"Woolly aphis needs attention at this season of the year. To control the pest, a commercial mixture extract may be used. To effect a good kill, the aphis needs spraying during June with a strong, miscible oil wash."

"HARBAS" IS THE OIL YOU WANT.
It not only kills woolly aphis, but a lot of other pests that attack fruit trees. Send for literature about Harbas.

TWO WEEKS IN SAN FRANCISCO.
THE PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION
is now open. Forty-one Nations represented at the Exposition emphasise its International Character. It is the most colossal of Expositions the world has ever seen, and its interest to the man of business and to the tourist is something that may not be duplicated for many years. Like Niagara Falls, this great Exposition, which has taken years to prepare, cannot be adequately described, but we have literature on its wonders which will be sent to you on application.

SEVEN WEEKS IN ALL.
Approximately from Sydney to San Francisco and back occupies 7 weeks—4 at sea, 2 on shore. In these 2 weeks you can see the Exposition, the Yosemite Valley, the Grand Canyon, Rocky Mtns., etc. No other line has so fast a time-table; but our return tickets are interchangeable with the other trans-Pacific Companies. Our route is via Honolulu going; Honolulu and Samoa returning.

CRYSTAL PALACE—ALL WEEK.
You've never seen anything half as funny as CHARLIE CHAPLIN and MARIE DRESSLER, in the last laughter-mad episode of "Tillie's Punctured Romance," the big six-reel Keystone Comedy, "THE BUST UP."

It's the climax of the big Keystone—the most riotous, longest, and funniest climax that ever was. The fun starts when Charlie and Tillie enter their new mansion, runs right through the big smash at the grand ball, and Charlie's horrible flirtations. It only ends when Tillie chases him with a six-shooter, and the Keystone Kops have the time of their tempestuous cat-like lives. Hours of screening the "Bust Up":—11.40 a.m., 1.20, 3.0, 4.40, 6.20, 8.0, and 9.40 p.m.

EPISODE 2—"THEIR MARRIAGE," in 2 reels, transferred all this week to the COLONIAL THEATRE.
If you didn't see the second instalment of the fun classic at the Crystal Palace, see it at the Colonial to-day.

LYRIC THEATRE.
"THE MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY."
Only two more weeks, and the surprising solution of the great mystery will be at hand. The plot deepens in episodes 19 and 20—"The Underground River" and "The Secret Warning."

EMPRESS THEATRE.
"HOW LIEUT. ROSE SPIKED THE ENEMY'S GUNS."
Warfare on land and sea makes the two reels of this drama vivid and thrilling. "Hogan Out West" is the new Keystone comedy.

CHAPTER XXV.—Continued.

He had far better not have said anything, but left her to speak. His tone steeled her instantly. She knew that he had come as an enemy, and that if he remembered anything of the time in Paris and of the relations between them he was determined to ignore it all and treat her as a stranger.

"I have been waiting three days for you," she said, trying to still the beating of her heart. She spoke in French, although he had used English.

"I have not been able to come before," he replied in French.

"Why?"

"I had many important things to do," he answered bluntly. He was no diplomatist, and gave the first reason which occurred to him.

"And I was only one of the unimportant? You are not complimentary. There was a time when you would not have thought that: when nothing, however important, would have kept you away from me."

"If I know what you mean it is only because of what you have told others—Mr. Blount and Miss Truscott—not from any recollection of my own."

He might have seen by her angry start that this was only making matters much worse. She turned away under the pretext of putting her book down. "You have seen Miss Truscott, then?" she asked, while her face was away from him.

"Of course. She told me of your visit to her."

"I mean—to-day?"

"Yes. I have just left her."

"Then your matters were not so important as to keep you from her?"

"Miss Truscott and I are engaged to be married. I think Mr. Blount told you that. You knew it when you went to her."

This was a direct challenge. He intended it to be. He had formed his plan in regard to her. To tell her the blunt truth. He had had enough of equivocations, subtlety, and evasions; they had only led to his hopeless floundering in this quagmire of trouble. He would have no more of them.

She was some time before replying, and he had ample opportunity of studying her. She was undeniably a very handsome girl and strangely like Olive Peters. She was not dressed to advantage; but the very disorder of her magnificent hair, rich red gold, clustered about her face like a carelessly painted aureole, added to her beauty: while the loose clinging black robe suggested the perfectly moulded bust and the symmetry of her figure. Every action was instinctively graceful.

"You do not hesitate to tell me all that?" she asked at length, turning to him. She had herself well in hand then. She was not going to win him back without a hard struggle. Every word and inflection of his voice told her that; but it did not altogether displease her. If he had ceased to love her and resisted strenuously it would be like the Jean of old. But he could not, he dared not, set her at defiance. She was absolutely confident of that. The compelling power was in her hands, not his. Moreover, he deserved punishment for the way he had deserted her.

"Oh, no. It is quite necessary that you should know the truth."

"Then why do you come to me at all?" she asked, smiling and lifting her hands slightly. White, pretty hands they were, and shapely arms, too.

"You said you wished to see me. But we are only fencing. Let us get at the things that really matter."

"And what are they. What can matter to you that affects me?"

"You said that I was pledged to marry you. Is that true?"

"Jean!" she cried coquettishly.

"Your pardon. I am blunt and plain spoken. If that is true I assure you I have not the slightest recollection of it. To my knowledge I have only seen you three times in my life. At Issy, the flying ground; afterwards, in the car which ran me down; and the third time some weeks later, at the Folies Travaires, when you were on the stage. Whatever else there may have been between us in the interval, if there was anything, I know absolutely nothing about it."

"And you do not intend to do what you promised in what you call 'the interval?'"

"If you will tell me all that happened I shall know better how to answer you."

"You do not remember the day we parted?" she asked. She wished to be sure of this in order to know how to deal with that fact.

"I have told you all I remember. I give you my word on that."

"I have sought you ceaselessly from that hour. Why did you leave me? Where did you go? I saw you at the Folies that night, but could not believe it was you, changed as you were. But I see it now, of course. And —you recognised me and hurried out of the place."

"The answer is quite simple. I came to myself in the villa at Chatillon, and could not even understand why I was there at all. I thought at first that it was the day of the accident; and not for some hours did I discover that weeks had elapsed."

"You said you loved me; you swore it over and over again; we were to be married. What do you say to that?"

"Only what I have already said."

"But I tell you now of your pledge, your sacred, solemn, oft-repeated promise," she said, her eager eyes on his. "Do you tell me it is to mean nothing?"

"I have no recollection of it."

"You swore it upon your honour, with your lips close to mine. Is such a pledge to be tossed aside?"

"I have no recollection of it," he repeated.

She was finding it increasingly difficult to repress her anger. She plunged her hand into the bosom of her dress and brought out a letter. "Do you know that writing?" she cried, holding it folded before his face.

"It is mine," he said at once, recognising it.

"Then read it," and she thrust it into his hand, and watched his gathering frown of surprise and dismay as he read it. It was his writing truly enough, and the words were a definite promise to marry her.

"Now?" she questioned, with impatient insistence, as he fingered this unexpected proof in anxious thought. "Well?" she questioned again.

"Such a marriage is impossible," he said slowly, with unmistakable finality.

"You do not deny that you promised it?"

"In the face of this I cannot."

"You made me love you, and now wish to cast me off because ——" she paused, lip curling, her eyes half closed as she looked at him aslant and her breath quickening—"because of this other woman. But you were mine first. I nursed you back from death. Should I do that to give you up to any other woman on earth?"

"I am sorry, but ——"

"Sorry," she echoed indignantly. "Sorry. As if you had stepped upon my gown."

"I knew nothing of it. If it were possible ——"

"Possible," she flashed, her eyes gleaming and her lips opening wide. She paused, and her voice was low and tense as she continued. "Many things are possible when a woman is scorned as you would scorn me. You had better think—long and carefully. You say you know nothing of what happened all those weeks. You will find it hard to make others believe that. You did not act and speak like one in such a state. You mean to toss aside this pledge of yours as a mere nothing; but there are many other things which cannot be tossed aside with the same careless ease and indifference. Do you know what you did?"

"There is not anything I am not prepared to meet," he said firmly.

"How bravely spoken. But you had better know what they are first. It is impossible to make me your wife, you say; but I have only to whisper one word, and the only wife you will ever have is the one whose single kiss is —death."

"I am not alarmed even by that. I have explained why."

"Can you explain a murdered man back to life? You murdered Inspector Dubois at Cremont. For that the police have sought for you far and wide. For that there is a price set on your head. For that you will go to the guillotine as surely as to-morrow's sun will rise if I speak the word. And speak it I will if you drive me to it. Now, m'sieur, about this pledge." She held up the letter, her fingers quivering with the rage which now flamed in her eyes as she riveted them on him, watching for the sign of panic which she was assured her words would produce.

But there was no sign of panic or even passing alarm in the steady gaze with which he met her fiercely uttered threat. She could not understand his calm defiance, and in the belief that it was no more than cleverly-acted pretence she put it to a further test.

She went to the door and flung it open with a theatrical gesture. "You wish to get rid of me, m'sieur. Go, then. The way is clear. Go if you wish—to the guillotine."

BUILDINGS AND WORKS.

PROGRESS OF THE TRADES.

It will be a handsome stone building, with elevations to both thoroughfares.

LAW REPORT.

BANCO COURT.

(Before the Chief Justice and a jury of four.)

CLAIM FOR RESUMPTION.

Burke v the Minister for Works.

Mr. J. L. Campbell, K.C., and Mr. O'Reilly, instructed by Mr. J. Relph, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Pike, instructed by Mr. J. V. Tillett (Crown Solicitor), for defendant. This was an action by Thomas Burke to recover compensation for the resumption by the Government of land situated between Rookwood (or Lidcombe) and Bankstown roads, being in area 5 acres 2 roods 10 perches, and forming portion of what is known as the Potts Hill Estate. The land was resumed for the Potts Hill reservoir extension.

Defendant pleaded that the compensation demanded by the plaintiff exceeded the value of the land.

The jury assessed the value of the property resumed at £900.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

ALLEGED MISREPRESENTATION.

Greenfield v Jorgensen.

Mr. Gannon, K.C., and Mr. Worthington, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. H. E. Manning, instructed by Mr. William M. Daley, for the defendant. In this action George Greenfield sued C. Jorgensen under a declaration, in which he complained that owing to a misrepresentation by defendant, he was arrested on a charge of stealing hides. The charge was afterwards dismissed. Damages were laid at £1000. Defendant denied that he had made any false representation.

The jury by majority returned a verdict for the plaintiff, with damages £50. On the application of Mr. Manning, a stay of proceedings was granted.

A RESUMPTION AT PYRMONT.

Phillips and another v Municipal Council of Sydney.

Mr. J. L. Campbell, K.C., and Mr. A. Thomson, instructed by Messrs. W. R. and F. B. Jones, appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Sheridan, instructed by Mr. Percy S. Dawson, City Solicitor (of Messrs. Dawson, Waldron, and Glover) for the defendant. This was an action brought by Lawrence David Phillips and others, executors of the will of Louis Phillips, deceased, against the Municipal Council of Sydney, to have assessed by the jury land resumed by the defendant, and situated in Pyrmont Bridge-road. The property in question has a frontage to Pyrmont Bridge-road of 206 feet, and to Lyons-street of 112 feet, and it was originally portion of the old Camperdown municipality, which was transferred to the defendant council. Barr-street runs into the centre of the land from Parramatta-road. It was resumed by the Municipal Council of Sydney in January, 1910, for the purpose, primarily, of increasing the width of the road, and for other purposes in connection with the improvement of the locality, which the council undertook as one of the conditions of the transfer from Camperdown. Plaintiffs contended that the land was in the centre of a progressive industrial and commercial district, and was eminently suitable for a factory. The defendants' offer being unsatisfactory, plaintiff now asked the jury to assess the value of the property.

The jury went out to view the property, and the case stands part heard.

NO 3 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson and a jury of four.)

Alison v Burrows.

The case remains part heard.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

NOMINATIONS OF EMPLOYEES' REPRESENTATIVES.

The following nominations of representatives of employees were recommended by his Honor:—

Food Supply and Distribution, No. 1 Group, No. 7 Board: Thomas Orr, 227 West-street, Balmain, in lieu of W. Scott, resigned.

Iron and Shipbuilding Trades Group, No. 7 Board: Thomas Cassidy, 247 Forbes-street, Darlinghurst, in lieu of William Henry Allen, deceased.

Manufacturing Group No. 2, No. 7 Board: George William Shearer, Croydon-road, Croydon, in lieu of Thos. Henry Newhouse, resigned.

RAILWAY CLERICAL WORKERS.

Re Food Supply and Distribution, No. 2 Group, No. 7 Board, for dissolution and transposition of board by Court.

His Honour suggested that the present board be dissolved, and reconstituted under the Government railway group, as clerical workers in the railway had nothing to do with the food supply group.

Mr. T. S. Crawford (instructed by Mr. F. S. Moore), who appeared for the Railway and Tramway Officers' Association, objected to this. The association preferred to remain as it was at present, fearing delays in hearing their claims if the suggested change were made.

Mr. Bretnall (for the Chief Commissioner of Railways and Tramways) agreed with his Honor's suggestion.

After argument, his Honor said that he would see the chairman in the matter, and ask him, if he was not too busy, to take claims. If that were so, the railway clerical workers would go to the railway group, which was their natural position.

SHOP ASSISTANTS.

This was an application for consent to appeal against an award of the Professional and Shopworkers' Group, No. 2 Board. The applicants were a number of suburban shopkeepers, for whom Mr. Beeby appeared.

Mr. Stuart Robertson, for the Shop Assistants and Warehouse Employees' Association of Australia, objected to consent being granted, as the applicants had not appeared before the board.

His Honor overruled the objection, and granted leave to appeal.

At the conclusion of the evidence, the plaintiff accepted a non-suit.

Bulloch and others v Harringtons.

In this case the plaintiffs claimed £200 for alleged breach of contract in connection with the sale of a dynamo and engine. The defendant pleaded not guilty.

His Honor reserved his decision.

Metz v Body and Another.

Catherine Elizabeth Metz sued Charles Sydney Body and Walter Stanley Green, trading as Lennon and Co., for the return of £20 deposit in connection with the sale of a business.

The defendants stated that the principal in the transaction should have been sued.

His Honor gave a verdict for the defendants.

(Before Judge Murray.)

Municipality of Leichhardt v Wells.

The hearing of this case was concluded. His Honor reserved judgment.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

Boyce's defence was that the child, which was born alive, was accidentally suffocated.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and Boyce was discharged.

A WAREHOUSE ROBBED.

Edward James Thomas and Ernest Philpott were charged with breaking and entering the warehouse of William Frederick Coxon, at Sydney, on May 5, and stealing therein a quantity of jewellery and other goods. Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for Thomas; and Mr. Clines for Philpott.

Thomas pleaded guilty to being an accessory before the fact, and was remanded for sentence till Thursday; Philpott pleaded not guilty, and the hearing of the charge was postponed generally.

Arthur Hilton, an elderly man, was acquitted on a charge of having, at Sydney on April 21, committed a serious assault. He was defended by Mr. J. W. Abigail.

Vincent Kay, 27, pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing a sovereign purse, a metal railway ticket, and 30s, from the person of Stanley Noble Rickard, at Sydney, on May 10. Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared for the defence. The jury acquitted Kay, and he was discharged.

PRICE OF BREAD.

NOT TO BE INCREASED.

COMMISSION'S DECISION.

The Necessary Commodities Commission, under the chairmanship of Judge Edmunds, was occupied with the application of the bakers for a rise in the price of the 2lb loaf to 4½d per loaf.

Mr. Dyer, of Ryde, president of the Master Bakers' Association, appeared on behalf of the bakers; and Mr. Bathgate on behalf of the Crown.

His Honor said the application for an increase of ½d per loaf could not be made hard and fast, as there were great differences in the quantity of loaves produced from one ton of flour. The average, it appeared to him, from evidence before the Commission, worked out at 1300 loaves to the ton, and at a ½d per loaf increase this would give the bakers £2 14s 2d per ton rise. If this application were granted, it would, on his own showing, give one big city baker an increase of £150 per week. His loss at present was stated to be £30 a week, but if the Commission granted the request before it, it would be giving this one baker £120 a week clear. His Honor, continuing, said he did not think it would be fair to the ordinary public if he granted the application, and allowed the price of bread to be put up. It would be a very liberal act on the part of the Commission if it fell in with the application and allowed one baker to make £120 and another £30 per week. There had really been nothing before the Commission, as far as evidence was concerned, to incline him to allow another ½d per loaf to be placed on the shoulders of the public.

Mr. Dyer asked that a farthing increase should be granted.

Judge Edmunds said that in that case he would receive fresh applications.

The Necessary Commodities Control Commission will deal to-day with the advisability of grading butter, and with an application by millers for increases in prices of bran and pollard.

TRADE WTH AMERICA.

A report has been received by the Acting Premier from the Trade Commissioner to America (Mr. Nielsen) respecting the increasing value of trade with San Francisco.

"From the 1st of January to March 1, 1915, the figures are as follow:—Imports from Australia to San Francisco, 1,785,725 dollars. Imports to Australia from San Francisco, 2,011,474 dollars. These figures show that there was never a time in the history of the trade between Western America and Australia when the imports and exports so nearly balanced the one with the other.

MUSICIANS' UNION.

REGISTRATION GRANTED.

The Musicians' Union of New South Wales applied yesterday to the Industrial Registrar for registration as an industrial union under the Industrial Arbitration Act of 1912. Mr. Carlos appeared in support of the application. Mr. Alfred O'Brien appeared as objector. Mr. Carlos objected to Mr. O'Brien as a person in contempt with the Industrial Court, as a fine of £50 imposed by the Court had not been paid. The Registrar overruled the objection.

William George French said he was secretary of the applicant union, the Musicians' Union of New South Wales. There were at present 36 members. Roughly speaking, there were about 1000 professional musicians in Sydney.

After hearing other evidence, and Mr. O'Brien's objections, the Industrial Registrar said he would grant the application for registration. It had not been shown that there was in this State any union to which the applicants could conveniently belong. The remaining ground, that the applicant union, if registered, was not a bona-fide union, was also untenable, as no evidence to the contrary had been adduced.

POLICE COURTS.

FINED £100.

Gustave Kubiel, 30, pleaded guilty at the Water Police Court yesterday to a charge of having sold liquor without a license at 133 Kent-street, Sydney, on June 6.

He was fined £100, with, as an alternative, nine months' hard labour.

INSANITARY SCHOOLS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of 5th instant Mr. Herbert K. Frost makes out a good case for better accommodation for the North Broken Hill school children, and as sufferers from departmental neglect we sympathise with him and his association.

The circumstances which Mr. Frost exposes are undoubtedly a disgrace to the Department of Public Instruction. Lismore has a school building which was condemned by the Government doctor and another doctor, as their report subjoined will show:—

LISMORE, Dec. 14, 1914.

This is to certify that at about 3.30 p.m. on above date we inspected a wooden structure, part of the Lismore District School building. The central part of this detached building is being used as a teaching room for the first class of the primary department of the school. We ascertained from the teacher that the actual number of this class on the roll is 75, while the average attendance is about 65. At our visit the number of scholars was 61, the near advent of the holidays no doubt accounting for the slight lowering of the average attendance.

The size of the teaching room is 22½ feet by 21½ feet (equivalent to a floor-space of 483.75 square feet), with walls 13 feet 8 inches high. Only one side—the easterly—is provided with windows, of which there are four, each 7 feet by 3 feet. The room is fitted with a small central ventilator in the ceiling, of very little practical efficacy. On the west side of the room is the only door of the apartment—about 7 feet by 3 feet.

The teaching staff has praiseworthily endeavoured to mitigate unsatisfactory conditions by the complete removal of several boards on the west wall of the room, opposite the windows and just below the ceiling, but this measure is rendered almost wholly futile by the fact that that wall opens into a semi-closed low passage way, this obviously quite precluding any satisfactory through ventilation being obtained.

At the time of our visit there was a strong, cool, north-easterly breeze blowing through the four easterly windows of the room, and the temperature was 92 degrees Fahrenheit, so that for that particular room, especially for summer, conditions were unusually favourable, yet on walking between the central rows of desks towards the middle of the room one was at once aware of pungently-disagreeable exhalations from the overcrowded children. It is not pleasant to think what must be the sum of the suffering caused by the contained effluvium in that room on a hot, calm day.

To sum up the conclusions arrived at from our inspection of this place. The floor-space per head, as shown above, is distinctly below the extremely low minimum allowed for New South Wales schools generally; the ventilation, as already demonstrated, in spite of all endeavours, is altogether inefficient; and these factors, while intolerable in any climate, are greatly intensified by the oppressive, semi-tropical, coastal heat characteristic of Lismore.

As the result of our inspection, therefore, we have no alternative but to condemn strongly the continued use by the Department of Public Instruction of this, under present circumstances, insanitary room, as we consider it to be a menace to the health of the children interned there daily for hours. We would beg respectfully to suggest that the department be requested to make this an urgent matter, and, with the least possible delay, provide other suitable accommodation for the class.

As it is, should any epidemic occur among the children concerned, or a fatal case, or several fatal cases of sunstroke supervene, the department would incur a heavy liability—morally certainly, and very possibly legally also.

This report was duly sent to the department, and we got a letter stating that the matter had been referred to the architect for the department, and there it rests. That was six months ago. Previous to that, a departmental doctor visited the Lismore school, and, among other things, examined the children, but thought it inadvisable to go into that building. It might possibly help matters if that or some other qualified doctor were sent here to attend to the children one by one as they "go home sick" as some mitigation of the neglect. But we have not even a promise of that. If the health of growing children is not recognised as of paramount importance by the department, why the pretence of sending a doctor to the school? That North Broken Hill and Lismore are the only schools complaining does not imply that they are the only schools neglected. An inquiry might reveal other cases. It is absurd to expect children to pay attention and learn under the conditions disclosed, and it is cruel to the teacher. Like Broken Hill, we are far from the seat of Government, and our complaint and protest are apparently lost in the distance; but surely there are some fatherly men round the Under-Secretary whose ears are not deaf to the requirements of the children. If our letters to the department have not come before the personal notice of the Under-Secretary this letter will have done the children good service if it is the means of doing so. That is primarily my object.

I am, etc.,
GEORGE L. BONDFIELD,
Hon. Secretary Lismore Parents and Citizens' Association.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

ALONG THE DARLING.

Mr. T. S. Crawford, M.L.A., recently returned from a trip to Gundabooka and other stations on the Darling, when he accompanied Mr. Milne, of Orange. As is the case with others visiting the great western country, Mr. Crawford returns impressed with its possibilities. Speaking to a "Herald" representative, he stated he had been greatly struck by the value of the edible scrub—mulga, wilga, leopard tree, white wood, iron wood, and beef wood. Its value was not known to the early explorers, otherwise they would not have suffered such hardships; nor was it known by the first settlers, who cut and burnt it ruthlessly. He had seen sheep in really good condition on one station where there was scarcely any grass. They had been fed almost entirely on this edible scrub. The lamentable waste of the Darling waters had been going on far too long. In the region he had visited the banks of the river were about 40 feet high, and the depth of the water in the stream was about 10 feet. With locks and weirs they could have an irrigation system, and grow such crops as lucerne to make up for the deficiency of green fodder, so preventing the enormous wastage of live stock that occurred because of the insufficiency of green food. The possibilities of successful irrigation had in a small way already been demonstrated on some of the stations along the river, and at Yanda Station Mr. Chester had arrangements in hand for the cultivation of a plot of about 40 acres near the river. The capabilities of the country had been evidenced at the Pera bore, where perhaps the finest oranges in the world were grown, and at both Yanda and Gundabooka homesteads, where lemons and oranges flourished. He had been much struck with the well-known recuperative powers of the land. Rain had come only in May, and already miles upon miles of a green shoot of grass were to be seen, needing but a small fall to break the crust and ensure a good season. As a matter of fact, such rain had recently fallen over a large area, and had broken the crust, and when he left a few days ago everything was auguring well for the ensuing season.

Mr. Crawford only reiterates what has been preached for many years, with little effect. Thirty years ago "Lock the Darling" was a vigorous political campaign cry, but a great volume of water has run to the sea since then, and some devastating droughts also have harassed the land. It is a good thing, of course, that our politicians should know the wants of our back country, particularly the city men, and personal visits are valuable. But many visits on the part of many politicians accomplish nothing.

THE DAIRYMAN'S FRIEND.

The current number of the "Agricultural Gazette of New South Wales" contains an interesting article by Mr. H. W. Potts, principal of the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, entitled "A Visit to Dr. S. M. Babcock at the Wisconsin University."

Mr. Potts gives an interesting sketch of the great agricultural chemist and his work, with special reference to the butter and cream fat tester that bears his name. "Dr. Babcock's reminiscences," writes the Hawkesbury principal, "carry one over the period involving the initiation and successful application of the modern system of dairying, in which he played such an important part. He is a true scientist, and has emphatically demonstrated by his life-long devotion to research in the arena of applied science that unselfish spirit which has adorned the lives of great men."

Mr. Potts also says:—"One of the curios in the main laboratory at the dairy school is the original testing machine, manufactured to the order of Dr. Babcock, and illustrated in Farrington and Woll's text-book. It has been to several exhibitions, such as Chicago, St. Louis, and Paris. At the last two the Grand Prize was awarded to Dr. Babcock. This testimony to the brilliant and unselfish labours of a great man would not be complete without reference to the importance of his work to Australia and New Zealand. In saying good-bye he especially requested the writer to convey to the dairymen of this side of the equator his hearty good wishes and best regards."

FEMALE STOCK.

Mr. H. H. Honey writes at length regarding proposed legislation to prevent the killing of female cattle, and in the course of his letter says:—The wisest thing is to leave the matter entirely alone. It is already in the hands of those best qualified to deal with it, and whose personal interests are so bound up in, and well-being so dependent upon, a wise handling of the matter that their best attention and energies are guaranteed. Any restrictive legislation sought to be applied would inevitably cause hardship and loss to many, and just as surely benefit no one. The dairy farmer, whose cattle raising is chiefly with a view of securing the highest possible return of dairy produce, the beef value of his stock being only a secondary consideration, probably would be most keenly affected by any restrictive measures. With the most careful selection there is ever a considerable percentage of wasters, which, if kept on the farms, would not only be unprofitable in themselves, but would further tend to the rapid degeneration of the herds in which they were kept, eventually causing serious or probably ruinous loss to the owner. There are at the present time in my calf paddock fifteen heifer calves, each of which by the time they are six months old, and fit to wean, will have cost from £7 to £7 10s in feed alone, without any allowance for care and attention. While these fifteen were coming in there were also eight others, which, for various reasons, were deemed never likely to be of much use in a dairy herd. Anyone can see the serious loss that would result were it compulsory to rear these eight rejects, which at maturity (say three years) would not return their cost of the first six months, and would during their whole existence tend to choke the farm with unprofitable stock. The example only covers a period of about four months on one only of thousands of dairy farms somewhat similarly situated. The aggregate ill effects of restriction on the lines indicated would be enormous; in fact, so much so, that, in self-defence and preservation, dairy farmers would be driven to evading the law. This might be regarded as a criminal proceeding, but the criminality of the thing would rather lie in the way of framing a law that would make such a step necessary. The large stock-owner would be affected in much the same way as the smaller man. He could probably better stand the consequent loss, but the mischievous effect of keeping inferior stock would be greater.

DROUGHT IN THE NORTH.

Mr. Alfred P. Lord, Morven, Q., writes:—The Prime Minister and other prominent Labour leaders have lately held a conference, and they intend to further harass the unfortunate "man on the land" by further increasing the land tax. Mr. Fisher has stated the drought is nothing serious. I only wish he would pay the south-western portion of Queensland he represents a visit, and see for himself, when I think he would admit that in those parts at least the drought was bad and serious. With the exception of a few places, all who have any stock left are feeding them on Mulga scrub and lucerne hay, and if the drought continues much longer Heaven help them all. I notice in one of Queensland's leading papers a few days after the rain had fallen, a leading article to the effect that the drought was now broken, and that within a few days a great barren waste would be covered with an abundance of feed. This was entirely misleading, as, after a serious drought, any practical person knows that one fall of rain is never beneficial unless followed by further rain and suitable weather.

CHICKWHEAT.

Mr. W. L. Fidler, Municipal Poultry Markets, writes in reply to Mr. Main's letter in Friday's issue:—"Had an organisation worthy of the poultry industry been in existence to speak with authority concerning food supplies, I, for one, would most certainly have employed my time to more personal profits than in taking up the cudgels on behalf of an industry which has in turn been the plaything of the egg speculator and the football of the wheat speculator and the miller. Let me answer Mr. Main's query: 'Can poultry farming pay when fed on wheat costing 7s 6d and upwards per bushel?' Mr. Main's price limit to profitable production is 4s for wheat and 1s 3d for pollard, at which price more than one incompetent has been heard to say that poultry does not pay; and, judging by the heavily accumulated feed bills of some poultry farmers, does not pay even with free food.

"For a genuine attempt to help an industry to weather the drought storm the Attorney-General's determination to make available up to 4000 tons of prime wheat for the poultry farmer at practically cost price is the action of a man whose sympathies are in the direction of assistance in contradistinction to help towards profitable production. The meeting at which I was appointed secretary to act on behalf of the industry was called by public notice, and evidently Mr. Main was so contented with the threatening outlook that he stayed away. The industry is to be commiserated with, inasmuch as it contains a percentage of men whose cramped outlook finds expression in the public press when their efforts should be towards unity of action. Mr. Hall need have no fears regarding his wheat buyers: these will be in plenty."

TREE CULTURE.

The Governor (Sir Gerald Strickland) presided at a lecture given in the Royal Society's Rooms under the auspices of the Town Planning Association, by Mr. J. H. Maiden, F.L.S., last evening. The subject of the lecture was "Tree Culture," special reference being made to the requirements of municipal bodies in the matter of street plantations.

His Excellency, in moving a vote of thanks to the lecturer, said that it would be a fine thing if the sentiment for trees was encouraged, and if the combination of beauty and utility were more generally understood and appreciated.

FODDER FAMINE.

Mr. N. W. Kater has forwarded the following letter to the secretary of the Necessary Commodities Commission:—

Will you be good enough to call the attention of the commission to the deplorable state of affairs which exists in the town of Cudal on account of the shortage of chaff. No chaff can be bought in the town, and people who own horses do not know what to do to keep them alive. The manager of the local store tells me that he has only sufficient for his own horses, and has none for sale, and cannot obtain supplies at the price fixed, and he describes the appeals that are being made to him daily as "pathetic." I may say that while freetrade in chaff was allowed sufficient supplies came in regularly to keep the town going, but as soon as the price was fixed the supply ceased. Anticipating that the reply of the commission may be that if specific instances of the withholding of supplies are given seizures will take place, I may say that in my opinion such a course would not be possible in this district, for the reason that all the farmers own a certain number of stock, and it is doubtful if any of them have sufficient hay stored to feed them all for six months; therefore they cannot be compelled to sell. Moreover, as we cannot yet see the end of the drought, and cannot expect grass till the spring, even if more rain falls, they are not likely to part voluntarily with their fodder at the price fixed, with the prospect of perhaps having to buy imported fodder at a much higher price a few months hence to keep their stock alive. If, on the other hand, they are allowed to charge a price on a par with that for which imported fodder could be landed on their farms, no doubt sufficient supplies would be forthcoming for local requirements. In this connection I might say that the commission appears to have fixed prices on the assumption that the flow of fodder is always from the country to the seaboard, whereas in the 1902 drought the flow was in the other direction, and the same may occur before next harvest. The present method of fixing will then be clearly anomalous. The spectacle of dumb animals being starved in this way is most revolting to people in the country who live among animals and love them, to say nothing of the national asset we are losing. We could find no better way of assisting our enemies than by the destruction of our national assets. The way in which we are helping the Germans and damaging the cause of the Allies by stifling production by the fixing of prices is too large a question for the scope of this letter, but it is none the less of immense importance. To return to the local subject, I can hardly think that the members of the commission realise the suffering they are causing to dumb animals; otherwise they would at once remove all restrictions to the sale of chaff, and thus allow it to flow naturally where it is most wanted. In conclusion I may say that I am quite disinterested in this matter. During the 11 years I have lived here I have never sold any chaff, and have none for sale.

YOUNG LIVE STOCK.

CAMDEN.—Droughts have killed tens of thousands of young sheep and cattle, and in favoured parts, where dairying is more flourishing, farmers are selling their heifers and male calves in the auction marts, and most of the animals find their way to the butchers. In Camden fortnight old male calves have reached as high prices as 29s a head. With this continual slaughter of young stock we are bound to meet with a greater scarcity of meat next year, when only the rich will be able to afford to buy it. No one can blame farmers for selling their young stock, for they cannot keep them, but the Government should have power to prevent the wholesale slaughter of good dairy heifers and male calves. A large number of fine heifers in fat condition have been sold to butchers, and this is regrettable. No objection can be taken to old cows being fattened and sold to butchers. The wholesale slaughter of our best strain of young dairy cattle points to disaster in the dairying interests in the near future.

NON-POLITICAL UNION.

FARMERS ORGANISE.

GOULBURN.—At Crookwell an enthusiastic and representative meeting of men on the land formed a farmers' non-political union. Speakers emphasised the necessity of an organisation to break down combines in Sussex-street, which, it was said, fixed the prices for both producer and consumer. It was urged that by means of shares capital should be raised to secure premises and engage men, the farmers in this way conducting their own business. The success of other co-operative societies was cited.

One speaker described the Farmers and Settlers' Society and the country party as political adventurers, hoodwinking the farmers. It was decided that the new organisation be called the Farmers and Producers' Non-political Union. The president of Crookwell Shire (Councillor A. J. M'Innes) was chosen as first president, and other officers were elected. The president and Mr. Cullen (president of the Crookwell Agricultural Society) were appointed as delegates to the Commodities Commission.

SCARCITY OF STOCK.

JERILDERIE.—There is a great scarcity of fat stock throughout the Jerilderie and Berrigan districts as a result of which one of the local butchers has had to close down. The other butchers have ceased the delivery of meat, and residents have to attend to their own requirements. The pinch is also being felt in other commodities, chiefly butter, which has been hardly procurable during the week.

CO-OPERATIVE MOVEMENT.

The report of the special committee appointed at last year's annual conference of the Farmers and Settlers' Association of New South Wales, to draft proposals for a new co-operative movement, is being distributed amongst delegates to this year's conference, to be held next month. The committee consisted of Messrs. R. M'Crone (chairman), of Mirrool, near Temora; J. G. Fletcher (acting secretary), of Malebo, near Wagga; G. H. Kelsey, of Wagga; J. O'Neil, of Cowra; and H. E. Holmes, of Dubbo.

The report outlines the general scope of the operations of a suggested company, which is decided to be formed. A nominal capital of £100,000 is suggested in 100,000 shares of £1 each, the company to be registered when 15,000 shares are taken up. The method of the sale of shares suggested is 1s per share on application, 1s on allotment, and calls of 1s per share at intervals of not less than one month.

The objects for which the company is to be formed are:—

(a) To offer facilities to, and act as agent for, farmers and graziers and others for the disposal by the most approved means of their produce in the various markets of the world, and the appointment of agents in branches of the company in different localities for the furtherance of this object.

(b) To effect advances on any produce held by the company that the directors appointed by the shareholders may think fit.

(c) To produce for sale to shareholders and others, cornsacks, woolpacks, twine, manure, agricultural implements, and other articles of consumption or otherwise that the directors to be appointed may think fit.

(d) To act as agents for the insuring of property, and for recovering employers' liability for compensation to workmen for injury.

(e) To extend the working of the company in any direction which may seem likely to benefit the shareholders.

(f) To divide the profits which may accrue to the company in the conduct of its business if, and when, the directors shall deem advisable among the shareholders of the company in proportion to the paid-up capital of the shares held by each, after setting aside out of each year's profits such sum as the directors may decide for a reserve fund, and also such sum as the directors shall allot to be distributed as a bonus among all shareholders in proportion to the value of their business with the company during the year.

SHEEP AND WOOL.

STUDENTS' ANNUAL DINNER.

The students of the Sheep and Wool Department of the Sydney Technical College on Friday evening tendered the annual dinner to the instructors, the teacher in charge, Mr. A. Hawkesworth, being voted to the chair. The chairman stated that the department had been in existence 24 years, and a scheme was now on foot to extend its operations by including in the curriculum instruction in spinning, dyeing, and designing of textile fabrics. The various speakers referred to the progress of the sheep and wool industry in the State along scientific lines, and the cordiality with which the toast of the instructors was honoured was proof of the good feeling subsisting between the staff and the pupils.

THE WHEAT CROP.

RIVERINA SOWING.

Official reports received from Riverina indicate that the farmers have been busy ploughing and sowing for wheat, which helps to strengthen the belief that the next harvest will be a satisfactory one.

CATTLE BREEDS.

ILLAWARRA SHORTHORNS.

BERRY.—At a well-attended meeting of the Illawarra Dairy Cattle Association amended conditions under which the Milking Shorthorn Association were willing to accept amalgamation were considered. A motion was carried declining to amalgamate.

LOSSES AMONG SHEEP.

BERRIGAN.—Sheep now being brought back to Riverina from relief country are dying in large numbers. Carcases are dragged out of almost every truck, and along the roads to the various stations they are lying in hundreds. The chief cause of this mortality is the nearness of the lambing season. The losses being sustained daily are enormous.

CATTLE DROWNED.

BERRY, Monday.

During last week a mob of cattle, numbering approximately 150 head, were being driven from the drought-stricken Victorian districts to the Shoalhaven for agistment.

As the result of heavy rain, the creek at the Barrengarry crossing had swollen considerably, and in endeavouring to cross the stream the bullocks were washed off their feet. The drovers in charge managed to rescue 50 head, the balance being drowned in the flooded waters.

CHEAP HORSES.

BLACKTOWN.—A mob of young horses, chiefly draughts, arrived from Temora last week. The majority were yearlings, and a number were sold at the exceptionally low price of £1 each. The animals are in low condition, but appear sound and healthy.

DAIRYING.

BERRY.—The Berry Co-operative Dairy Company, Ltd., for the month ended May 28 manufactured 19,071lb of butter, a decrease of 7762lb in comparison with the previous month. The quantity of milk treated for the Sydney milk trade from April 30 to June 3 totalled 62,425 gallons. Suppliers' cheques for the period under review amounted to £3129. Progress report of butter exported received showed that a profit of £1173 17s 3d was made on 1705 boxes.

MURWILLUMBAH.—The nineteenth half-yearly meeting of the Tweed River Co-operative Butter Company was held on Saturday. The quantity of butter manufactured during the half-year was 921 tons, an increase of 143 tons over any previous half-year. The balance-sheet showed that, roughly, £2961 is at the credit of the suppliers' suspense account, representing a difference between the ordinary pays and those fixed by the association for the months from August to November, 1914, to cover war risks. This amount has been placed at fixed deposit. There is a balance at the credit of the profit and loss account of £1119, of which it was recommended and approved that £1000 be expended in the purchase of a pasteurising plant with a view to raising the quality of the butter, the estimated cost of the plant being £1400. Suppliers to the company have so far contributed 182 boxes of butter to the War Food Fund.

NOWRA.—The output of Nowra Butter Factory was 32 tons for May last year, and the output for May this year 23 tons.

SCONE.—Mr. M. Abbott, M.L.A., met a number of local dairymen here for the purpose of discussing the new Dairy Bill, Mr. F. Ashford, chairman of the Scone Co-operative Dairy Company, presiding. Several amendments were suggested, Mr. Abbott promising to have same brought before the House. The meeting passed a resolution, emphatically protesting against the fixing of the price of butter by the Government. Owing to adverse weather conditions, dairymen present declared that they made loss at the present price than when butter was selling at only 11d; also, that at the present price and scarcity of feed dairying did not pay.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

BERRIGAN.—Mr. R. Wardrop has been appointed secretary to the Berrigan Agricultural and Horticultural Society. Despite the adverse season, it was resolved to hold a show this year.

POULTRY FARMERS' CONFERENCE.

PAPERS AND NOTICES OF MOTION.

A non-competitive paper on "The Poultry Industry" will be read by Mr. James Hadlington, poultry expert, of the Department of Agriculture, at the poultry farmers' conference to be held on the 19th inst. Three other papers have been accepted, and prizes awarded to two of them, as shown hereunder:—

First prize, £3 3s, allotted to Mr. William O'Hearn, of West Maitland, for paper entitled "Mating for Egg Production."

Second prize, £2 2s, awarded to Mr. W. H. Forsyth, Forsyth-street, Willoughby; title of paper, "1914 Conference Lessons."

The third paper accepted is entitled "Breeding for Egg Production," by Mr. E. J. Winton, Sherwood Heights, Guildford.

The following notices of motion have also been accepted:—

(1) L. L. Earl, Highgate, Bonar-street, Arncliffe,—"That in the opinion of this conference more use would be made of power-driven machinery for treating bones, oyster shell, lucerne, glass, etc., etc., if poultry farmers knew the moderate cost of installing such machinery, the great saving in the feed bill, and the increased production of eggs."

(2) P. S. Heather, St. Ives,—"That in the opinion of this conference, in order to further the best interests of the poultry industry, a Poultry Farmers' Association of New South Wales should be formed, and that a small committee be chosen from this conference to take steps to bring the matter to some practical issue."

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

The students from the agricultural classes at the Sydney and Granville Technical Colleges, accompanied by the instructor, Mr. Henry Lord, visited The Tresco, Neutral Bay, on Saturday afternoon for a practical lesson in the pruning of roses, grape vines, and fruit trees.

SALE OF A STATION.

BROKEN HILL.—Culpaulin station, on the river Darling, of about 160,000 acres, has been sold by the Weinteriga Pastoral Company to Byrne Bros., of Tintinallogy, who take possession in September.

PRICE OF BUTTER.

RISE OF SIXPENCE PER LB. URGED.

MURWILLUMBAH, Monday.

A largely-attended meeting of the Tweed Central Branch of the Dairy Farmers' Association was held on Saturday concerning the fixing of the price of butter. It was resolved that a final appeal be made to the Necessary Commodities Commission that the price of butter be increased forthwith by at least 6d per lb. "When the price of butter was originally fixed by the commission," the appeal runs, "we considered that such action was taken without a full knowledge of the situation, and since then facts and figures have been produced to prove that not only has there been absolutely no attempt at exploitation, but that the earnings of dairy farmers amount to a rate of wages far below the usual union rates. In addition, we feel sure it is not the intention of the Government to impose restrictions which will have the effect of reducing the scanty earnings of one particular class to the benefit of the large wealthy community resident in the State."

FODDER SHORTAGE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The shortage of fodder was referred to by the Director of Agriculture (Dr. Cameron) to-day. He said the price of fodder is soaring, and supplies are on their last legs. The indications are that the jump in prices last week will retard seeding and fallowing operations in farming districts until imported fodder arrives to relieve the situation. The first cargo is not expected until June 25. Fodder is fetching prices which are unprecedented since the time of the gold rush in the early 'Fifties. One explanation that has been offered to account for the shortage of fodder last week was that the wet weather had interfered with chaffing.

Funeral details should run smoothly, without worry or distress to the bereaved. They ought to feel that that which custom prescribes should be well and reverently done; ought to represent efficiency of service with economy in charges. That is so with W. N. BULL, Funeral Director, Head Office, 164 King-street, Newtown.

MINERS' EFFORTS.

HILL END, Monday.

The employees of the Amalgamated Hill End gold mine held a meeting to form a fund for the relief of Australian wounded soldiers. A levy of 1s per week was struck during the currency of the war. The money up to the end of July is to be paid to the Red Cross Society for Australia Day.

The employees of the Reward mine have taken similar action.

FRENCH-AUSTRALIAN LEAGUE.

A magnificent new piano of the best French make, presented by Messrs. F. Aengenheyster and Co., Ltd., is to be raffled for the benefit of the league. Tickets, 2s each, may be had at 321 Pitt-street.

The committee thanks the many kind helpers who have come forward to make shirts. Mrs. De Courcy Russell has given 50 flannel shirts for the men at the front. All this enables the league to make a large shipment by the next steamer.

The secretary of the Bread Fund thanks the many anonymous donors, among whom R.J.M. and "Little Victor" are the most regular and faithful.

The hon. treasurer, 113 Pitt-street, acknowledges the following further contributions:—Amount already acknowledged, £9099/12/10. General donations: J. H. Baird £2/2/, Anthony Hordern and Sons, Ltd., £50—£52/2/. Bread fund: Mrs. Balgarnie £2/5/, Nurse D. Stacy 7/10, collected by Miss S. White 8/6, collected by E. M. AN AUSTRALIAN IN FRANCE.

Some weeks ago Mr. Richard Hawke, an Australian-born Mayor of the village of Vauxbouin, near Soissons, appealed to his fellow-Australians for assistance to relieve the distress of his village caused by its devastation by the Germans. The French-Australian League noticed the appeal, and responded with a remittance of the value of 10,000 loaves and a considerable shipment of garments. Mr. Hawke has acknowledged the gift, and states that his fellow-countrymen's generosity has far exceeded his most sanguine hopes.

A meeting is to be held in the Town Hall at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning to form a committee with the object of providing comforts for the men of the 5th Battalion.

SCONE, Monday.

The local War Relief Fund has now reached £7312, the latest additions being: Belgian Day, £1069; Gundy Sports, £130; Belltrees sale of work, £100; Stewart's Brook sports, etc., £50; Moonan sports, £103; Kars Springs sports, £63; G. M. Finlay, £50.

FOREST REEF, Monday.

The farmers and settlers, as well as orchardists, in this district are being appealed to to contribute one acre or half an acre of growing crops towards a fund for supporting returned wounded soldiers, and already seven farmers have responded, as well as one orchardist, viz., Messrs. G. E., J. W., and J. Ginns, of Bloomfield; Mr. C. J. Webb, of Springside; J. Betar, Mumbil; A. Hill, Huntley; J. M'Clymont, of Collsfield; and J. F. M'Lean, who has given the products of apple trees of this season's bearing.

TOO MANY FUNDS.

A GOULBURN SUGGESTION.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman Richards) has received a letter from the Mayor of Goulburn, in which he has suggested that with reference to the proposal to start a new fund to be called "The Australian Wounded Soldiers' Fund," there was no necessity for a separate fund to be raised in this way. Under clause "A" of the terms upon which moneys were to be originally subscribed to the Patriotic Fund, as set out in the Lord Mayor's letter to him of September 10 last, it was quite competent, he understood, for any subscriptions to be allotted solely for the wounded soldiers. He further stated that in the country, at all events, complaints were being made that too many different funds were being started. Without in any way wishing to discourage the steps proposed to be taken by Mr. Hugh Ward, he thought it would be better, if it could be so arranged, that the fresh effort to be made to raise funds should be simply in connection with the existing Lord Mayor's Fund.

Last month the Historical Society paid a visit to Vaucluse House, the home of Wentworth. On the 19th instant a walking tour will be undertaken along part of the first road over the Blue Mountains, the one constructed under the supervision of William Cox.

WAR AND PARLIAMENTS.

A man from Mars visiting Australia in these awful days of war would probably be moved by the sight of our Parliaments busy about trifles. It would appear to him an extraordinary thing that an Empire fighting for existence should include legislators so concerned with their parish pump. We are far away from the battlefields of Europe, and now that the seas have been swept clean of German cruisers there is no whisper of a possible attack upon any of our ports. Our daily life goes on; sports, racing, enjoyment of all kinds continue for multitudes of folk who seem to have little time to think of the grim business in hand. And as if in sanction of everything futile and frivolous the State Parliament meets this week with a Government in control ready to pass contentious legislation quite outside of the war interest. In Melbourne the Federal Parliament has been sitting for weeks. Its members have done any business affecting the war speedily, because they have no party axes to grind upon that gruesome stone. But they are being kept to wrangle over proposals which the Adelaide Labour Conference has insisted shall be brought forward, as though the war would go on by itself. Logically there is nothing surprising in this attitude of Labour Governments in Australia and the apparent lethargy of so many of its inhabitants. Ministers are saying in effect that the war does not matter. They certainly make speeches on occasion. We are now being told that recruiting is slackening, and appeals are being issued for more men to send to the front. The Minister for Defence is even beginning to consider the question of making shells in Australia after three months' cogitation, or the lack of it. But, generally, the way in which our many Parliaments are being forced to potter about odds and ends which the electors do not take the trouble to follow argues that the Governments concerned are not concentrating upon the war. If they were thinking of nothing else they would have no time for contentious legislation. They would be so earnest about getting help in their perplexities from any and every quarter that they would decline to meet their Parliaments, except on the basis of close co-operation with the Opposition, and because the war was excluding everything but plans to make victory certain and to ensure that it shall come soon.

As Ministers have so much time for party plans and Labour conference orders, the people to whom they must look later on for endorsement and a new mandate are left practically without leadership on the war. But we shall be told that each Government has its mandate, and from the people. It is going on with contentious legislation because the people insist upon it—such will be the rejoinder. Has not Queensland just had a general election, and upon contentious matters apart from the war? Very well; Mr. Ryan as Premier is simply going ahead, and who shall gainsay him? In reply there is no need to argue afresh that the States and the Commonwealth represent the same great body of electors, and that war touches all alike. Nor need we insist once more that if this war ends adversely to us there will be neither time nor room for party politics or for anything else of British make. The line we take is that our political leaders are practically telling the world that it is all right, the Allies are going to win, and Australian Parliaments are anticipating the issue. In fact, it is business as usual, and no one need worry. But what will our men at the front think of this fatuity? What are they saying now? After the losses in Gallipoli one would expect Mr. Fisher and his colleagues to declare that they had their hands full with the single job of mobilising Australia to back up our gallant lads fighting so bravely against Germany in Turkey. Why have they not told the Adelaide Conference that the cry from the Dardanelles is:—"Leave Tooley-street and rouse the country to help us." Our Parliaments take the House of Commons for their guide in practice and performance, and British political traditions govern our legislation and party warfare. Why then cannot our leaders be content to follow the example of Mr. Asquith and his co-workers in this war? If Mr. Fisher is so obsessed with the thought that his party is Australia, and that other parties do not count, it may be suggested to him that the responsibility of leadership becomes immensely greater. If he is so little the leader that he dare not give either conference or caucus the truth, his will be the sorrier burden later on when our fighting men return to say what they think about it all. For, in spite of our laggard leaders, Australia may have 100,000 soldiers at the front sooner or later, and to keep that body at full fighting strength will mean continual reinforcements. Notwithstanding our wrangling Parliaments, there will be a great body of opinion formed outside of Australia to move profoundly the Commonwealth when the men return. What will our Ministers say when asked why they were so slow in organising help? What will they reply when shelled with reproaches from our troops, whose mounting casualties might have been kept down had our Legislatures been of one mind?

THE HIGH COMMISSIONER.

In the debate on the High Commissionership it was stated in the House of Representatives that if a vote of the people of Australia could be taken Sir George Reid would be reappointed by a large majority. The statement was confirmed by the subsequent course of debate. It was clear from the speeches of members on either side of the House that the work Sir George Reid has done for Australia is appreciated by both parties alike. Just as the appointment was made with the approval of the Labour leaders so it would be repeated with the applause of the Labour party if the members of that party could vote in accordance with their inclinations and in obedience to their sense of fairness. Sir George Reid has by universal consent established the strongest claim on the gratitude of his countrymen. He accepted the High Commissionership at a great personal sacrifice, and he has carried out the very exacting duties of his office with a success exceeding all expectations. Gratitude of itself would no doubt be only one of the many motives which should guide Ministers in their choice. In this case gratitude points in the same direction as a due regard for the interests of the country. During his term of office Sir George Reid has established in England a position from which he is able to do admirable service to Australia. He brought to his work abilities of a high order, great knowledge of the conditions of Australia, and the gift of understanding men, which is as useful to an ambassador as to a politician. The succeeding years have enabled him to gain an experience of the duties of his office and a share of the confidence not only of popular audiences but of men of affairs which is more valuable still. Mr. Fisher has given as a reason for the proposed change that a man who has held office for five years has ceased to become representative. The people of Australia will agree that their High Commissioner should be representative, but they will not apply to the word the sense in which it was used by Mr. Fisher. To be representative a man need not necessarily belong to the party in office, for the time being. A far better claim to the title may be based on a career spent in the country, on a career spent in the service of the State, and with the confidence of its citizens, and on the achievements which show not only the will but the ability to guide its public life.

In their decision on the High Commissionership Ministers will, however, set an example which will be remembered long after they have ceased to hold office. The present case is typical of many that are bound to happen in the public life of Australia. It will be quoted in the future as a proof of the treatment which must be expected by Australians who sacrifice a career for the State. If the present resolution of Ministers is maintained it will show that there is no office in the community which is sacred from the ambitions of the party leaders to enjoy the full fruits of a victory at the polls. When that fact is realised we shall at once cease to be able to find first-class men willing to accept official positions, and the reputation of those positions will be seriously diminished in the eyes of the world. The individual States have already suffered sufficiently in the past from the dangers of the party system to make everyone anxious at all costs to prevent the High Commissionership becoming a consolation prize for political failures. Once it is known that five years is to be the limit of a High Commissioner's term of office, and that his successor will be found among the Ministers in power at the date of his retirement, the main part of Sir George Reid's work will have been destroyed, and his office will cease to count beside those of Canada or of South Africa. Mr. Fisher has not yet committed himself to a decision which would be inconsistent with his claims to patriotism and to impartiality between all classes of the community. Whether he appoints himself or not, we trust that he will reconsider the terms on which the office is now held. It is not right that a man who has served his countrymen at the sacrifice of considerable income should have to consider how to earn a living when his political masters decide to do without him. Neither is it right that in considering whether a term of office should be renewed, Ministers should think fit to discuss the officer's private means. In the interests of the Commonwealth a pension should be attached to offices which require the services of the ablest men of the community at the height of their careers. Officials would then be safe from a temptation which they should never be called upon to face, and Ministers need not apply a test which is no less dangerous than the ideal of spoils to the victors.

ALIEN ENEMIES.

GRAYTHWAITE.

SPLENDID GIFT TO THE STATE.

MR. T. A. DIBBS'S ACT.

The Premier yesterday expressed high appreciation of a gift by Mr. T. A. Dibbs of a fine residence known as Graythwaite, and nearly seven acres of land at North Sydney, as a home for soldiers. Mr. Dibbs offered the fee simple of the property, and Mr. Holman, on behalf of the Government, thankfully accepted it yesterday.

"I brought the matter before the Cabinet to-day," Mr. Holman said yesterday, "and we are indeed deeply grateful for a magnificent gift like this. It is difficult to find adequate terms in which to express our sense of Mr. Dibbs' generous public spirit. I have personally had occasions in the past to lament the occasional failures on the part of leading citizens in New South Wales to recognise fully duties which they owe to public movements. Certainly during this last year a new spirit of liberality has been abroad, and Mr. Dibbs's act is a splendid example to-day. I can only hope that many others will be moved to reach the same high standard."

Following is Mr. Dibbs's letter to the Premier, offering the property:—

"Dear Holman.—My wife and I have decided to give the Government the fee simple of our home known as Graythwaite, North Sydney, as a convalescent home, to be used in the first place for our wounded soldiers returning to Sydney. We do so in admiration of and sincere sympathy for those brave men who have so unselfishly given their services and their lives fighting for the Empire in the cause of justice and liberty.

"The land has an area of six acres 2 roods and 23 perches, is a freehold, and the title Real Property Act. On hearing from you I shall instruct my solicitors, Messrs. Dibbs, Parker, and Parker, to complete the transaction. Possession I propose to give on September 1, or earlier if you wish it.

"Yours sincerely, T. A. DIBBS."

The Premier's reply was as follows:—

"Dear Mr. Dibbs.—Your letter of June 3 offering to the Government on behalf of Mrs. Dibbs and yourself the fee simple of your home known as Graythwaite, North Sydney, only came to my notice yesterday upon my return from Adelaide and Melbourne.

"I hasten to acknowledge its receipt, and to give expression to my warm recognition of its munificent character, and of the patriotic spirit which underlies it. I purpose at the earliest opportunity inviting my colleagues in Cabinet to take the offer into consideration.

"Yours faithfull, W. A. HOLMAN."

STATE PARLIAMENT.

TO-DAY'S OPENING.

The State Parliament will be officially opened at noon to-day by his Excellency Sir Gerald Strickland.

It is understood that the Governor's address is fairly lengthy, and contains a prominent reference to the efforts being made by the State Government, in co-operation with the Federal authorities, to assist the Empire in prosecuting the war to a successful issue. The address recites the intention of the Government to pass a long list of measures, and to carry out a number of public works, the chief of which is the underground city railway.

When the Assembly meets at 4.30 p.m. Mr. Arkins, the latest addition to the House, will move the Address in Reply, and Mr. Durack will second it. An understanding has been arrived at between the Premier and the leader of the Opposition to facilitate the presence of members at certain patriotic functions to-night and to-morrow, but it is stated that no official overtures have yet been made by the Opposition for a renewal of the party truce that prevailed last session. "The session will be a normal one," said the Premier yesterday.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor, attended by Captain d'Apice, A.D.C., was present at the lecture by Mr. J. H. Maiden on "Tree Culture" at the Royal Society's House last evening.

The Queensland Treasurer, Mr. Theodore, accompanied by the Under-Secretary, Mr. W. L. Fowles, will leave Brisbane for Sydney on Wednesday next to confer with the New South Wales Ministers.

To-morrow will be the 57th anniversary of the birthday of his Majesty King Gustaf V. of Sweden. Owing to the present unsettled conditions no official reception will be held at the Consulate.

Assistant-Professor Barraclough, lecturer in mechanical engineering, has been appointed to the Chair of Mechanical Engineering at the Sydney University.

Captain Anton Stub and Mr. K. Gundersen (first mate), of the Norwegian barque Fram, which was wrecked at Malden Island on January 24 last, arrived in Sydney yesterday from Auckland by the steamer Riverina, and left at night by the express for Melbourne.

TRIBE OF MEROZ.

BISHOP LONG ON THE BOXERS.

BATHURST, Monday.

Speaking in All Saints' Cathedral last night, Bishop Long remarked: "In an English paper some time ago I saw a sugestion that some of the tribe of Meroz may be found in the Bombardier Wells, Pat O'Keefe, and Bandsman Blake types, who are still punching one another for large prizes of gold to the enjoyment of London audiences. It is surely pertinent to ask why are men staying at home to punch one another when comrades of their own regiments are falling one by one in the defence of their country fighting—not in mimic warfare for a heavy purse of gold, but fighting for that which is far above all gold: honour, women's security, the country's security, civilisation's peace and humanity's progress."

THE SYDNEY MAIL.

This week's issue of the "Mail" contains the first pictures that have arrived from Gallipoli. One striking photograph shows a section of the landing party that so heroically stormed the hills at Gaba Tepe, and another shows members of the A.M.C. searching for wounded on the first hill after the Turks had been driven back. There are also numerous photographs of wounded soldiers at the various base hospitals, and on the way there. A fine full-page picture gives a capital idea of the "exodus from Egypt," the departure of our troops for the Dardanelles. Another picture of outstanding interest shows the primitive methods employed by the Turks in transporting their troops across the water. The Italian campaign against Austria is given great prominence, several pages of pictures showing prominent officers, Red Cross workers, regimental parades, Tyrolese scenes, etc., and a map detailing the forts and other defensive features of Trieste. There are also pictures from the other seats of war—France, Belgium, Russia, Germany, and Turkey. The Soldiers' Club in Sydney is pictorially dealt with, and the centenary of Waterloo is represented by pictures of Wellington and Napoleon, and one of Longwood House, St. Helena, in which the Emperor died.

ENGLISH MAILS.

There will be no inward English mail arriving in Sydney this week. The next inward mail is that coming by the P. and O. Company's R.M.S. Mongolia, which is due to arrive at Fremantle to-day. Her mails, which will be a double one, should arrive at Sydney on Monday next.

ARMS AND MEN.

JOINT STATE ACTION.

CONFERENCE IN SYDNEY.

A conference was held yesterday, and will be continued to-day, between members of the State Ministry and those representing manufacturing interests relative to the local supply of munitions. The Premier stated that until he had communicated with the Prime Minister he would not be in a position to make a public statement.

The conference was, said Mr. Holman, between various Governmental and private experts, and the position was very hopeful. Mr. Holman added that, as a result of the day's conference, he had communicated by telephone with the Victorian Government, which was exactly of the same opinion as the New South Wales Government. "We are going," said the Premier, "to put our joint views before the Prime Minister as to a course of action that might be adopted about recruiting. The Victorian Premier has promised to communicate with the other Governments on learning the Prime Minister's attitude."

NO SUPPLY FROM BRITAIN.

OFFICIAL MESSAGE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

The Governor has received a communication from the Colonial Secretary regarding the New Zealand contributions to the forces at the front, stating that, while his Majesty's Government fully appreciates the desire of the people of New Zealand to provide all the assistance in their power, the Imperial Government is of opinion that at the present juncture, as no arms or equipment can be sent from the United Kingdom, it would not be desirable to depart in any way from the curriculum of training and numbers arranged between the Imperial and New Zealand Governments for the expeditionary forces.

FEDERAL ACTION.

LOCAL MANUFACTURE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

After reviewing the efforts made by the Government to secure information necessary for the manufacture of shells, the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) to-day stated that as soon as the required data was received from the Imperial authorities the Commonwealth would undertake the industry in Australia.

Outlining what steps had been taken by the Government in the matter so far, the Minister said: "On September 29, 1914, a cable message was despatched to the British Government asking for full details of the manufacture of 18-pounder Q.F. guns and ammunition, including fuses. Five days later we cabled that Major Watts, R.A.G.A., and Captain Coghill, armament officer, were to be put on to the work, and to ask the War Office to give them every assistance. On November 18 the War Office sent us a long cable stating that it would give our deputation every assistance. On December 17 I put a minute to be communicated to the officers concerned, that neither time, enery, nor money were to be spared in placing the Commonwealth in the position of making artillery ammunition. On the day following I instructed the assistant-manager of the Small Arms Factory to supply us with an estimate of what he believed the cost would be of machinery and buildings for the manufacture of 18-pounder ammunition to enable us to undertake its manufacture. On December 26 the British Government informed us that facilities would be given to Captain Coghill to visit the various factories, but that they wished the services of Major Watts to be made available to them until the end of the war. This was agreed to.

"The High Commissioner was instructed on December 31 to obtain quotations for a complete plant for manufacture. This quotation was obtained and forwarded on April 13. On May 29 the High Commissioner was asked to forward as soon as possible specifications of steel manufacture and drawings of 18-pounder high explosive and shrapnel shell.

"It was not until February 22 that Mr. M'Kay came to see me. As soon as the necessary information is available steps will be taken to organise the whole of the available resources of the Commonwealth. To get the maximum output in that regard I intend to invite the co-operation of the Chamber of Manufactures."

ORGANISED INDUSTRY.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Many additional offers of assistance in the production of munitions of war were made by engineering and metal-working firms to-day. Some were submitted to the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce), and others to the Chamber of Manufactures, which is assisting in the organisation of the country's resources by preparing a list of willing assistants and securing details respecting the capacity of plants. Several firms in Victoria are confident that, with a very slight adjustment, their works will be able to undertake the manufacture of shells.

Mr. S. McKay, of the Sunshine Harvester works, who is a member of the committee appointed by the Federal Ministry to investigate the question of the manufacture of shells, stated to-day that an important development in the general situation might be expected in the course of a few days.

LITHGOW FACTORIES.

LITHGOW, Monday.

Mr. C. H. Hoskins said this morning that he was quite prepared to help in any way possible to supply steel casements for shells. He added that if these could be made in Australia by any other firm, the Lithgow ironworks could do the same. He had not received the special formula of the steel required for this class of work, as it was announced that the Broken Hill Company had, but the Government could rely on his firm assisting in supplying shell cases if these could be made from Australian steel.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Premier, Sir Alexander Peacock, is in communication with the Premiers of the other States on the question of what can be done to assist both in recruiting and in the manufacture of war material.

DRILLING TIME.

A BOARD'S PROTEST.

The Public Service Board has forwarded to the Premier its decision in regard to leave for drilling purposes.

"With a view," says the board, "to the due despatch of departmental business, staff efficiency, and uniformity of practice, the board considers that leave of absence for drilling purposes should not exceed half an hour per week, and should be taken after 4 p.m. For shooting practice not more than six half-days may be granted in any period of 12 months. . . . In arriving at these conclusions the board is actuated by the feeling that membership of these clubs should be regarded as entailing a certain amount of self-sacrifice, and that the exclusive use of Government time should not be expected."

MOTORIST SENTENCED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Sentence was passed by Judge Box at the Melbourne General Sessions to-day upon Clifford Nash, who had been found guilty upon a charge of having driven a motor car so recklessly as to cause grievous bodily harm to a boy named Donald Fowler, who, as the result of the accident, had to have one of his legs amputated.

Judge Box said he agreed with the verdict of the jury. The accused had recklessly driven the car at a speed which was unpardonable, considering that he had to meet the cross roads traffic. The question of punishment was a matter not wholly concerning the accused. It was for others. It was his (Judge Box's) desire to express what he certainly felt, that in Melbourne motor cars were driven at the intersection of roads at a speed greater than they should be. The sentence would be twelve months' imprisonment without hard labour, and the prisoner would be kept apart from other prisoners.

GASES IN WARFARE.

EXPERT'S OPINION.

PROBABLE ABANDONMENT.

A cable message states that the Austrians claim that a new explosive named Ekrasit used by them has been responsible for some of their recent successes. Mr. Fred Wright, chemistry expert, of Messrs. Elliott Bros., Ltd., yesterday made an interesting statement concerning the composition of gases and high explosives, and their application in warfare.

Mr. Wright expressed the opinion that the use of poisonous gases in warfare will probably be abandoned, as the power to counter-attack either by heavy explosives or by neutralising chemicals will render the attack by gases abortive. It was also pointed out that attacks by gases were only successful when employed from an eminence.

Referring to the new explosive, Ekrasit, Mr. Wright said that its exact composition would be carefully concealed, but it is probable that it is one of the nitro organic compounds. Chemists have been experimenting for many years to produce a perfect explosive, which really means a substance that carries within itself all the elements for perfect combustion, and which requires a comparatively slight excitation, or, in other words, a light percussion, to cause a complete chemical decomposition.

The fault of many explosives, such as lyddite, is that the chemical components are only imperfectly combustible, and the more rapid and perfect the combustion the more violent becomes the explosion. Trinitrotoluol, or T.N.T., is nitrified toluol, and may be said to be manufactured by the action of concentrated nitric acid upon toluol, which is methylbenzol, and has the physical properties similar to benzol. Guncotton is trinotro celulose, and is prepared by a similar process from nitric acid and absorbent cotton wool; and the more perfect the nitrification the more rapid becomes the explosion. What is claimed as a new Austrian discovery probably comes under this category.

Mr. Wright stated it was only necessary to locate the whereabouts of a gas generating plant to render its destruction comparatively easy, and he quoted instances where cylinders of compressed chlorine and the whole gas generating plant had been wrecked by the explosion of shells, which, of course, reversed the situation and suffocated the Germans in the trenches.

Bromine is reputed to have been used in the manufacture of the asphyxiating gases, but the supply of this substance is exceedingly small, and it is improbable that any nation could command a sufficient supply for war purposes. Chlorine is the cheapest, and it may be called a by-product from the German alkali works that were recently wrecked by aeroplanes. Liquid chlorine is manufactured in Australia, and is an article of commerce.

Mr. Wright is of opinion that, should Great Britain decide upon the uses of gases, qualified chemists will be employed on the field—men not only acquainted with the best means of its adoption, but also best able to combat counter-attacks.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

IMPORTANT REFORMS OUTLINED.

MR. BLACK'S PROPOSALS.

An outline of the policy already being pursued by the Government, and which is intended to be pursued in regard to health matters, was given yesterday in an address to the members of the Health Society at the Town Hall by the Minister for Public Health (Mr. Black).

Mr. Black indicated his intention of introducing several important reforms, chief among them being an effort in the interest of women by taking such measures in specially equipped hospitals as would, it was believed, secure painless childbirth. This was a subject about which there had been much argument, he said, but he was convinced that the All-wise Creator would approve of any method that science might devise for lessening the miseries of this world, and especially the miseries of women, who have more than their fair share. A distinguished French chemist, M. Georges Paulin, had, after years of research, discovered an anodyne, which did away with all pain without endangering the patient or child, and its complete success had been demonstrated by Professor Ribemont-Dessaigne in one of the largest maternity hospitals of Paris. "I am going to call for an inquiry," said the Minister, "and see if we cannot introduce this method here, and, if so, I shall have the satisfaction of knowing that I have done something that will be of immense service to the community, and that will earn us the gratitude of all classes, and especially of the women."

Passing on to other matters, the Minister said that Sydney had a lower death-rate than any other city in the world. The whole State could very nearly claim the same record. There was only one country in the world where the death-rate was lower, and that was New Zealand. This result was undoubtedly due to the various sanitation measures that had from time to time been introduced. The condition of some of the rubbish tips in the metropolis was absolutely horrifying. On these tips, which in many cases were masses of festering rubbish, children were to be found playing, cows were sometimes to be seen picking up garbage, and men collected rags and so spread disease and contamination. These tips would have to be done away with. They would compel the councils to erect destructors. If the councils had not the money the Government would provide it, and it would have to be paid back. Some aldermen had not a very high notion of their duties. They seemed to think that the chief thing was to keep down the rates at all costs. In Burwood, Canterbury, Mosman, Woollahra, and other municipalities, where one would not expect to find them, these tips existed, and they would have to go. One of the worst of the tips was in the Woollahra municipality.

Another project he had in hand was the establishment of a drug depot or factory, which would sell to the hospitals and friendly societies' dispensaries at a little above the actual cost. It had been estimated that in this way the cost of drugs to these institutions would be reduced by 10 per cent., and this would represent a considerable economy in the course of a year. Hospitals in which infectious diseases were treated should be isolated, and that was another matter to be dealt with. Then he proposed that where vacancies occurred on hospital boards women should be appointed to them, and he intended to recommend that that course be pursued as far as hospital committees in the country were concerned.

The prevention and cure of consumption was also claiming his best attention. He hoped to enlarge the Waterfall Sanatorium, in order to provide accommodation for a hundred more patients. It was a curious fact that two-thirds of the patients in their homes were men. This was perhaps due to trade diseases, and because women were more temperate than men, and did not smoke. Four tubercular clinics had been established in the city and one at Newcastle. He had been horrified at the ignorance displayed by some people here in regard to simple rules for health. The Government had issued a number of pamphlets, but he was afraid the people did not pay much heed to them. Accordingly he intended to inaugurate a series of lectures in all the centres, which would be illustrated with lantern slides, and they might have a musical programme in order to coax the people to come. The bush nursing scheme had been a striking success. The department had also established a travelling hospital for the examination of school children, and much had been done in that way in the treatment of such complaints as adenoids and ophthalmia. Twelve baby clinics were in operation in the city. These were only some of the department's many activities.

IN FRANCE.

WITH THE BRITISH TROOPS.

AN AUSTRALIAN'S NOTES.

(BY H. S. GULLETT, OFFICIAL AUSTRALIAN CORRESPONDENT.)

British Headquarters in France.

In the English clearing hospital we visited the day we landed in France there were hundreds of young victims of the fighting at Neuve Chapelle. Some lay very still, others tossed feverishly in their pain; all were unshaved and battle-worn; none was composed. We passed from that awful surrounding, and went aboard an Indian hospital ship filled with men from the same battlefield, and the change was extraordinary. Here were men just as grievously wounded, and thousands of miles away from home and race. But these maimed and suffering Indians were resigned, almost easy. Their features were in repose; their bedclothes were orderly. They had not the inexpressible weariness, even the utter hopelessness, so common in the English wards. They lay and suffered with a sublime restraint, as became tribesmen whose forefathers had been fighting men since time immemorial. England is yet but a stripling among the peoples.

The Indian cavalry have wintered well. The one good feature of this cold wet campaign is that nearly all the soldiers, at least here in the west, have had dry warm housing when out of the trenches. You find whole French villages in the possession of the Indians, and the sight of these tall inscrutable men with little French children playing without concern or wonder about their feet does not soon lose its interest. They made up a big army in themselves, and their transport and feeding and keeping at strength would in itself have been a fine achievement for any Minister for War. Of course they have to be treated as quite distinct from the British army in all matters of commissariat, and then there are susceptibilities of the different castes and races.

AUSTRALIAN HORSES.

With all their appeal to the imagination, and their suggestion of the range and glory of the British Empire, these Indian horsemen could not absorb the undivided attention of any Australian countryman. Twenty years ago, as a boy, I sometimes took an idolised colt, bred on a selection in Northern Victoria, to the horse sales at Nagambie, and remember the feelings of mingled pride and pain with which I watched the Indian buyers keenly bid for him; and then a disconsolate railway journey home with a saddle and a bridle and a cheque. But there, behind the haystack, amidst a group of cavalry leaders, there was ample compensation for the youthful sacrifice; for horses never looked better and were never more appreciated by their owners than these thousands of Australian Walers in France. Some of the men were mounted on Arabs, and some on "Indian country-breds," and a few on thick-set horses from England. But there was no doubt as to the favourites. Officers declared the Arabs not up to their heavy task, and the little horses of the desert, with all their gallant bearing, were obviously over-loaded, as they were half hidden by their riders and gear. The Indian "country-breds" are coarse and sluggish; they lack quality, and give no promise of rivalling the Australians.

TRUTH ABOUT THE INDIANS.

There has been a lot of nonsense talked about the failure of the Indians in this war. The truth is that the British public, in their ignorance, expected impossible things of them. There was trouble in the early days in making up the losses of their officers who were killed and wounded, and in this respect the famous little Gurkha was singularly unfortunate. In an early engagement immediately after they reached the battle area, the Gurkhas got badly mauled by an enemy they never reached, and their casualties, especially in leaders, were very high. The personal bond between these Indian regiments and their officers is unparalleled perhaps by any army in the world. Very often many generations of the same families, leaders and men, have run through the same regiments; the Indians venerate the Englishmen, and the pride and affection of the officers for their men can only be fully appreciated when observed under active service conditions. If a German is seen to strike at a wounded officer it is a very bad day for the rest of the enemy who come within reach of the Indians in that fight.

The Indians' first great day in the war came at Neuve Chapelle. Thanks to the Indian artillery—which, by the way, is not in the hands of the natives—they got through more freely than most of the English regiments, and had a glorious day at close quarters with their foe. They caught him, and fought him hand to hand in his trenches; they chased him, and slashed him as he fled. We saw the Indian infantry a few days afterwards, and it was one long smile of satisfaction. "We have our tails up now," said one of their proud paternal officers. By the way, the Indian heroes of the campaign so far are the Garhwalis and the Jats. Give them a real old-fashioned moving fight with an enemy they can see, and once in a way feel, and the Indians with their British leaders have perhaps no superiors and few equals in Europe to-day.

THE WOUNDED.

Wounds are more severe in this war than ever before. In comparison with the South African campaign, more men have been killed outright, less of the wounded have recovered, and the proportion of permanently maimed will be higher. There are relatively less clean bullet wounds than in the fighting against the expert rifles of the Boers. Most of the men, except when directly attacking with the bayonet, are knocked out by shells, and the wounds are usually large and jagged, while even injuries from rifles are particularly severe, because of the very close range at which the bullets are fired. An officer of the R.A.M.C. told us a story of a general who thought the ambulance drove too fast over the rough roads. The charge was denied. "Well," said the general, "how then do you account for the wounded being in London 24 hours after they leave the trenches?" As a matter of fact, the work cannot be done quite so expeditiously as that, but within 24 hours of being hit every wounded man (unless he is hapless enough to be caught within the two lines, from where no heroism can rescue him) is in a comfortable field hospital with his wounds temporarily dressed, and within another 12 or 24 hours he is in a permanent hospital in England. And the thing is done not by violent motor driving, but by the quiet working of a big and businesslike machine.

HORRORS OF WAR.

It is in these field and clearing hospitals that the immediate tragedy of the war is brought home to you as nowhere else. The heat of battle and the joy of supreme mental and physical effort are past; wounds have gone cold and sore; men of this twentieth century civilisation are in the agonies of indescribable wounds inflicted by an enemy boasting the same civilisation, and professing to worship the same God. Here are two men quite still, their heads and faces all swathed, eyes shattered, and for ever blind from an exploding shell; here is a cheery fellow with one leg already amputated, but he is hopeful that the other poor mutilated one, to which the surgeons have given a chance, will be saved. The surgeons tell you otherwise. Some men die in prayer, some smiling, others cursing. An officer walking ahead of me in a clearing hospital talks to himself about "the one-armed swine" he keeps out of the trenches." But among the patients there is very little railing against the German Emperor or his army. In the trenches and even here in these bloody hospitals you have impressed upon you the broad, clear line which all nations insist upon drawing between individual and collective murder. The Germans are not hated by our men in the trenches. They are cursed each day as a stray bullet gets home and takes a man's dear friend or a company's admired and perhaps beloved officer. They are fought savagely when it comes to close quarters. But this British army as a whole, although killing Germans with might and main, is fighting all the way with a sorry-we've-got-to-do-it-old-chap attitude; and the horrible tragedy of the hospitals is illuminated by gleams of the purest chivalry, as when time after time our wounded insist upon giving precedence upon the stretchers and in the ambulances to their wounded foes. It was upon this Flanders soil that Sidney gave the lesson to his race.

THE BLIND OFFICER.

In the Australian hospital at Bologne, which, by the way, has the reputation of being one of the best voluntary hospitals upon service ("I wish we had many more like it," Sir Arthur Sloggett told me), a distinguished soldier who lost his sight in the South African war, is writing letters for wounded Tommies. A tall, handsome man, well-known to most Londoners, he spends long hours each day on his humble service. His old regiment recently went up to the firing line, and he expressed a wish to visit them and "have a look round." Headquarters staff at once agreed, and he was taken among his men, and under fire again, and not allowed to feel altogether out of it. The incident was characteristic of the staff and the service.

BUKOVINA

NEW MOVE.

VIGOROUS BATTLES.

BELGIAN SUCCESS.

The Austro-Germans have crossed the Dniester on the northern frontier of Bukovina, and at places to the westward.

In the region of Zurawno, where the recent Russian success was gained, between fifteen and sixteen thousand of the enemy were taken prisoner.

Heavy fighting is reported in Central and Northern Poland; also in the Kovno province.

On the western front the Belgians drove the Germans back near the coast, while favourable progress is reported elsewhere.

It is stated that the arsenal at Pola was almost completely destroyed by the recent Italian air raid.

The Italians occupied Gradisca a week ago, and are now attacking Gorizia.

FURTHER GAINS.

THE WESTERN FRONT.

TRENCHES CARRIED.

PARIS, June 14.

A communique states: We carried by assault a strongly-fortified ridge northward of the sugar refinery at Souchez, and held our ground, notwithstanding an intense bombardment.

We attacked German trenches adjoining the Serre-Mailly road, south-east of Hebuterne. Our infantry in a single dash carried three trenches, taking 100 prisoners belonging to three regiments. Prisoners stated that the German losses during the past few days have been very heavy. Certain units intended for a counter attack were annihilated as soon as their ranks were formed.

Our artillery caused a strong explosion at Roisseux, followed by a fire, and a panic which our gunfire increased. We progressed southward of Quennevieres farm, Soissons, and then bombarded it with 120 shells.

A communique yesterday stated: An incessant cannonade took place all night north of Arras.

We secured possession of the railway station at Souchez.

A stubborn struggle with hand grenades is proceeding in the southern part of the Labyrinth. We maintained all our gains.

FIGHT AT HEBUTERNE.

BRILLIANT ASSAULT.

The official details of the fighting at Hebuterne and Serre, between the 7th and 10th, state that the German line formed a sharp salient at Serre, three kilometres from Hebuterne. Both villages are situated on rising ground facing each other. The German trenches lay halfway between, fronting Toutvent Farm, enclosed by a line of big trees, and garrisoned by 1000 of the 17th Baden Regiment. All were placed hors de combat. Not a man escaped, while two companies of reserves were almost entirely blotted out.

In the first counter attack two battalions of the 99th German Regiment were hurriedly brought up from the Arras sector without food, and suffered heavily. Our prisoners to June 11 were 580, including ten officers.

Our troops displayed great dash. The assault was fixed for 5 o'clock in the morning. Our batteries prepared the way. Soon all the positions were covered with smoke, the Germans meanwhile keeping up a heavy fire on our trenches.

Precisely at 5 o'clock the first line quitted the trenches and dashed into the furnace. In ten minutes they had passed over two German trenches and reached a point where they were ordered to entrench. The second wave cleared out the German trenches behind our first line.

On the preceding evening our artillery had cut the communication trenches, depriving the enemy of food and ammunition supplies. We found the Germans squatting and crouching in little groups. Some fired occasional shots. Resisters were dealt with, and the others surrendered.

After the capture of the position we cleared out the choked communication trenches under heavy German cannonading, and consolidated our new position.

BELGIAN ATTACKS..

GERMANS DRIVEN BACK.

AMSTERDAM, June 14.

Strong Belgian attacks drove back the German line near Westende and northeastward of Nieuport. The German losses were severe.

Heavy drafts of Germans arrived at Ghent and Bruges on Friday and Saturday, while 17,000 old troops returned from the Yser, worn out. They complain of heavy losses.

ITALIAN ADVANCE.

GRADISCA OCCUPIED.

ISONZO FRONT.

ROME, June 13.

The Italians occupied Gradisca last Tuesday.

The announcement was delayed until both sides of the Isonzo River were in Italian possession, and the permanent occupancy of the town assured.

AUSTRIANS TRAPPED.

Seven thousand Austrians participated in a surprise attack on the Italian rear at Monte Nero. The force, which was divided into three columns, followed the narrow mountain tracks with machine-guns strapped to mules.

Alpini detected the movement. The Italians were ordered to lie concealed, and the Austrians fell into a trap. Alpini and Bersaglieri sprang from rocks, trees, ditches, and entrenchments, and attacked furiously while their machine-guns battered the Austrian rear.

The Austrians after a desperate resistance retired. Some of their mules and guns fell over precipices.

ATTACK ON GORIZIA.

ITALIAN OFFENSIVE.

UDINE, June 14.

The attack on Gorizia (20 miles N.N.W. of Trieste, on the left bank of the Isonzo), has practically begun.

The Italians are bombarding the fortifications of Santa Maria, San Pietro, San Marco, and Santa Lucia, besides the Austrian position in the mountains dominating the town, especially Mount San Gabrielle, north-west of Gorizia. Railway communication north and south has been cut.

The Austrians' main plan was to prevent the Italians crossing the Isonzo between Tolmino and Gradisca, believing that these points, acting in conjunction, form an insurmountable barrier. The capture of Plava and Descla by the Italians upset the plan.

The "Echo de Paris" says that with the capture of Plava the investment of Gorizia is almost complete.

GALLANT COLONEL.

DECORATED BY KING.

The King decorated Colonel Rossi with the Medal for Valour. Colonel Rossi led a column across the Isonzo against a strong position. At the critical moment the pontoon bridge was swept away, and the Austrians immediately hurled a strong force against the Italians and attempted to sweep them into the river.

Colonel Rossi charged in the face of a terrible fire, and the Bersaglieri broke through the enemy holding the bridge head, and stormed the artillery position commanding the river. Colonel Rossi fell wounded, but exhorted his men to continue until the position was won.

BOGUS PRIEST SHOT.

A parish priest at Caporetto was found signalling to the Austrians from his church, giving them the range. He proved to be an Austrian colonel in disguise, and was shot.

TYROL AND TRENTINO.

STEADY ADVANCE.

ROME, June 13.

A communique states: Skirmishing is taking place on the Tyrol and Trentino frontiers. The enemy continues to retreat on Carnia.

Alpini captured the Volais Pass and some prisoners.

On the Middle Isonzo we succeeded in a sudden attack on the left bank of the river, near Plava. The enemy fiercely counter-attacked, but ultimately retired, leaving numerous dead. We took 200 prisoners. On the Lower Isonzo our heavy artillery destroyed a dyke near Sagrado, with which the enemy had flooded the country and impeded our advance.

A later communique says:—Attempts to arrest our offensive between Tonale and Carnia have been repulsed. Fruitless attacks against Preikoffel were particularly desperate. Our offensive against Carnia continued rapidly and brilliantly. Besides the Volia Pass we occupied the Valentina Pass.

The operation was difficult, as we were obliged to dislodge the enemy from every trench, and follow him from rock to rock, but the action of the Alpini was decisive.

Our heavy artillery opened fire against the fortress of Malborghetto. The high part of the fortress was set on fire, causing an explosion of ammunition stores.

POLA AIR RAID.

IMMENSE DAMAGE DONE.

The "Messaggero" states that the dirigible raid on Pola almost completely destroyed the arsenal.

Near by the arsenal were six warships, including one battleship, two cruisers, and several submarines. A number were damaged.

Bombs also struck several floating docks.

AUSTRIAN AIRSHIP.

WRECKED BY STORM.

GENEVA, June 14.

An Austrian airship returning to Trent after reconnoitring on the frontier was caught in a storm, dashed against the mountain crags, and wrecked.

GREECE.

ELECTIONS PROCEEDING.

ATHENS, June 14.

The elections are proceeding. Experts predict a large majority for the ex-Premier, M. Venizelos.

BRITISH LOSSES.

WEEK-END LISTS.

LONDON, June 14.

Week-end British casualty lists contain the names of 160 officers and 3500 men, including colonial and Indian troops at the Dardanelles.

RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN.

IN GALICIA.

ENEMY CROSS DNIESTER.

RUSSIAN CAPTURES.

PETROGRAD, June 14.

A communique states: On Saturday night the enemy in massed formation attacked us on the lower Lubaczewka, in the region of Mosciska (east of Przemysl), but suffered heavy losses, and did not resume the offensive.

Our success at Zurawno relieved attacks at Halicz (some 25 miles lower down on the Dniester).

In the region of Zurawno we captured 348 officers, 15,431 men, and much munitions and transport.

On the front from Nesswiska (about 20 miles north-north-east of Kolomea) to Zaleszczyky (on the northern frontier of Bukovina), the enemy crossed the Dniester in several places.

On Friday night our cavalry in a fiery charge, near Zaleszczyky, against detachments which crossed the Dniester, sabred 500 and took prisoner 200.

The enemy's new movement across the Dniester, owing to the river's twisting course, covers an irregular front of 30 miles.

AUSTRIAN CLAIM.

SUCCESS ON THE SAN.

AMSTERDAM, June 14.

An Austrian communique claims that the Austro-Germans captured Sieniawa (in Northern Galicia, on the San), and afterwards stormed vantage points northward of the town, capturing 3500 Russians.

Austrian troops crossed the Bukovina frontier and occupied several places in Bessarabia.

GERMAN SIEGE GUNS.

HAVOC AT PRZEMYSL.

AMSTERDAM, June 13.

The "Lokal Anzeiger's" correspondent, who visited Przemysl, says that round Fort 10 he saw piles of Russian corpses, with crows hovering over them. Russian prisoners were employed to bury their comrades.

The German siege guns had reduced the concrete foundations of the fort to powder. Most of the dead did not have wounds, having died from air pressure, produced by the explosions. Many Russian heavy guns were blown to pieces. Fragments of steel and bodies of men and horses lay together in ghastly confusion.

KOVNO AND POLAND.

HEAVY FIGHTING.

PETROGRAD, June 14.

A communique reports desperate fighting on Saturday on the whole front from Advers, via Vindava and Venta, to the Dubissa (in the Baltic province of Kovno).

On the Shavli-Beetegola front, we captured several villages.

The enemy north of Prasnysz (Poland), after heavy artillery fire, launched a furious infantry attack. Two German battalions were forced to abandon their offensive east of the Mlava railway, after heavy losses.

Heavy fighting took place in the Bzura sector, where two divisions attacked, and the battle continues.

Cossacks charged and killed 100 and captured 50 on the right bank of the Vistula, in the region of Starojebo. The Germans made a violent attack, which failed, a quarter of a mile from our trenches. Our aeroplanes reconnoitred and bombarded successfully.

POISON-GAS.

HEROISM OF RUSSIANS.

Many incidents of heroism are connected with the first use of the gas on the eastern front. The Russians were ordered to remain quiet in their trenches until the Germans, expecting to find the Russians stifled, crept up to the entanglements.

Numbers of Russians fell asphyxiated after intense suffering. When the enemy appeared behind the death cloud our rifles swept away the first ranks, and the remainder retreated. Our machine guns were worked with a soldier holding wet bandages over the gunner's face until both died together.

In the first Russian trenches practically all the men were killed or asphyxiated, but reserves came up and avenged them with the bayonet. Many Germans came within their own gas zone. Their shrieks in the throes of the poison were horrible to hear.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

DROUGHT AND HIGH PRICES.

ZURICH, June 13.

Intense heat prevails in Austria-Hungary, and there has been a drought since April. The situation is causing anxiety for the harvest.

Serious rioting occurred in Budapest owing to the dearness of food. Beef is costing 3s 4d per pound, and the mob attacked the butchers' and provision shops.

BLACK SEA.

RUSSIAN WARSHIPS ACTIVE.

PETROGRAD, June 13.

A communique states:—Our torpedo boats destroyed the port buildings at Samsun (a Turkish seaport on the Black Sea), and sank many floating mines.

IN THE CAUCASUS.

COSSACKS' GREAT CHARGE.

A communique states: In the Caucasus, 200 mounted Cossacks charged the trenches. Dismounting, they sabred the Turks manning them. The remainder fled.

SHELLS FOR TURKEY.

ATTEMPTED SMUGGLING.

BUCHAREST, June 14.

The Roumanian authorities found that 18 new transport waggons from Germany for Turkish railways were double-bottomed, and loaded with 350 shells. These were confiscated.

AMERICAN NOTE.

MATERIALLY ALTERED.

WASHINGTON, June 14.

Mr. Bryan, in a further statement, says the American Note to Germany has been materially altered since his resignation, but although he saw the final draft the change was insufficient to justify a withdrawal of his resignation.

SUBMARINE WAR.

CONTINUED TOLL.

LONDON, June 14.

The German submarine U35 by shellfire sank the barque Crown of India, and also damaged the Norwegian barque Bellglade, off Saint Anne's Head. The crews were saved.

The crews of two trawlers sunk by submarine attack in the North Sea landed at Hull.

The Grimsby steamer Leuctra (3027 tons) was torpedoed off the Essex coast. The crew landed at Yarmouth.

EXPLORER'S ESCAPE.

COPENHAGEN, June 14.

Captain Amundsen, also many women and children, were aboard the Norwegian steamer Iris, bound from Newcastle to Bergen, when a submarine fired two torpedoes without warning. The vessel escaped.

COMMANDER DECORATED.

AMSTERDAM, June 14.

Commander Hersing, of the U21, has been awarded the Order of Merit.

BLOCKADED GERMANY.

BREATHING THROUGH A GAG.

PETROGRAD, June 13.

The "Novoe Vremya" says: The silent work of the British Navy has created a situation unprecedented in naval history. The blockade of Germany is real and complete. It could not be more effective if the British navy had destroyed the German navy.

It is true, the paper adds, that Germany is not yet stifled, but she is breathing through a gag.

WORLD DOMINATION.

IMPRACTICABLE IDEAL.

LONDON, June 13.

The "Forum," a Munich review, publishes a series of articles by distinguished German jurists. One says:—"The avowed objects of our absurd nationalists cannot be attained. Everyone should realise the fact that it is no longer possible to triumph in Europe as a world dominator. Ideas of equality and justice, which have been cruelly disregarded, will not permit the humiliation of isolated States."

In another article, a member of the Austrian Upper Chamber denounces the campaign of hate against England, which, he says, has made Germany cut an absurd figure in neutral eyes.

AMERICAN STEEL WORKS.

AT FRANCE'S DISPOSAL.

PARIS, June 13.

The "Journal" states that Senator Humbert's mission to the United States on behalf of the Minister for Marine resulted in Mr. Charles Schwab placing the whole of the works of the Bethlehem Steel Company, and every other industry in which he is interested, at the disposal of France.

Mr. Schwab wrote:—"Our two great Republics ought to stand shoulder to shoulder." He expressed his affectionate regard for France, and hoped she would soon reap a rich harvest of victories and succeed.

GERMAN SPY SYSTEM.

FORGED PASSPORTS.

NEW YORK, June 14.

The "Sun's" London correspondent states that Robert Rosenthal, whose arrest in England on a charge of espionage was reported a week ago, confessed that he was sent by Captain Prieger, head of the German spy system, who had a perfect equipment for the manufacture of fraudulent American passports. He suggested that if Rosenthal was afraid to travel on an emergency passport issued in Berlin at the beginning of the war he could give him another. Prieger showed him American passports in the proper form and on the proper parchment, also forged dies whereby the United States seal could be reproduced.

Rosenthal attempted suicide since his arrest. The "Sun" says Rosenthal's confession regarding Prieger is corroborated by incontrovertible evidence in New York.

SELF-CONFESSED SPY.

PREVIOUS CAREER.

LONDON, June 14.

The "Daily Mail" has made inquiries into the career of the self-confessed spy, Ignatius Tribich Lincoln, formerly member of the House of Commons. The inquiries show that he was guilty of theft from the Jewish mission in the East End of London and of the forgery of a bill which a money-lender cashed.

Tribich failed in 1911, his liabilities being £17,118. Mr. Seebohm Rowntree was a creditor for £7500. Mr. Rowntree employed Tribich to make investigations as to social conditions on the Continent.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

LONDON, June 14.

Dunrobin Castle, the seat of the Duke of Sutherland, was partly burned through the fusing of a wire. The pictures and furniture were saved. A number of wounded soldiers were removed just in time.

The volunteer munitions brigade began week-end work at Woolwich Arsenal, being occupied with the rudiments of cartridge making.

COPENHAGEN, June 13.

Sweden has prohibited the export of eggs for two months.

PARIS, June 13.

Prince Ernst van Meiningen has been killed in action on the Russian front.

H.M.S. MAJESTIC.

HOW SHE SANK.

PARIS, June 14.

A French officer, describing the sinking of H.M.S. Majestic in the Gulf of Saros, writes: "As the vessel heeled to port everything on the decks slid with a tremendous din. Not for a single instant was there panic, the crew calmly awaiting the critical moment. Four minutes after the explosion the Majestic turned turtle and foundered. Six hundred were thrown into the sea, a number being entangled in the torpedo nets. Our ship's boats participated in fine rescue work."

ESPIONAGE IN BELGIUM.

DISCOVERY BY GERMANS.

AMSTERDAM, June 13.

A Berlin telegram states that the Germans discovered an espionage conspiracy in the headquarters at Maestricht.

Seventeen spies were arrested in Liege. Eleven were sentenced to death, and six to a long term of imprisonment. Seven of the condemned have been already executed.

THE LANDING.

SIR IAN HAMILTON'S MESSAGE.

The following special order was issued by Sir Ian Hamilton to the Mediterranean expeditionary force prior to landing at the Dardanelles:—

"Soldiers of France and King George, before us lies an adventure unprecedented in modern war. Together with our comrades of the fleet we are about to force a landing upon an open beach in the face of positions which have been vaunted by our enemies as impregnable. The landing will be made good by the help of God and the navy. The positions will be stormed and the war brought one step nearer to a glorious close. The whole world will be watching our progress. Let us prove ourselves worthy of the great feat of arms entrusted to us.

"IAN HAMILTON, General."

WAR NOTES.

THE BUKOVINA FRONT.

From a political point of view the most unsatisfactory feature of the eastern campaign at the moment is the fact that the Russian army on the extreme left has had to fall back to the northward. It will be remembered that when the great Austro-German advance in western Galicia was at its height, the Russians gained a sweeping success down towards Bukovina in the east. One report stated at the time that this latter victory completely nullified the Austro-German success which had loosened the Russian grip on the Carpathians; but we then advanced reasons to show that this was a far too optimistic view to take of the matter. At the same time we emphasised the point that the Russian advance in the east was of very great importance from a political point of view, by reason of the effect it should have upon Roumania. We have always been led to believe that Roumania will join the Entente Powers in the field when the time is ripe—and the advent of the spring, and the entry of Italy into the war suggests that the ripening is about due. But Roumania would hardly be likely to come into the field as an isolated force; she would rather wait until her army could step across her border and fall into line with the Russian legions. Therein lay the great importance of the new Russian advance down through Bukovina, for it promised a speedy uncovering of the Roumanian frontier. Now we have the unwelcome intelligence that the Russians, who have been fighting on the line of the Pruth for some weeks, have been driven northward to the Dniester once more, and that again Austrian forces are raiding Russian territory in Bessarabia. If Roumania is really ready to join in the war this latest development is wholly to be regretted, for it means inevitable delay.

AUSTRO-ITALIAN OPERATIONS.

The Italians are gradually consolidating their grip of the left, or eastern, bank of the Isonzo, both north and south of the strongly fortified town of Gorz. They crossed the stream down near the sea some time ago and pushed on to Monfalcone, but now we hear of them being in possession of Gradisca, about nine miles north of Monfalcone. This town is actually on the western bank of the river, but we are told this morning that the news of its being occupied was purposely delayed "until both sides of the stream were in Italian hands, and the permanent occupancy of the place was assured." North of Gorz, about midway between it and Tolmine, the Italians have established themselves on the eastern bank of the river, in the neighbourhood of Canale and Plava. Considerable forces are opposite Gorz and Tolmine; but while demonstrations have been made against both these strongly-held positions, the Italians have managed to effect crossings elsewhere, and, in the case of Gorz at least, they will now probably move to take the fortress on the flank as it were. It is certain that Gorz will have to be reduced before the Italian armies can push very far down into the Istrian peninsula, because it is only ten or twelve miles from the Adriatic—much too narrow a gateway. A feature of this campaign is the free use of aircraft for offensive purposes, a fact due mainly to the accessibility of important points on either side. Airships have been used, not without military effect, by both belligerents; but the recent Italian raid on Pola, the great Austrian naval base, seems to have been particularly successful. If the "Messaggero" is to be believed, the great arsenal there was completely destroyed, and several warships were damaged. Each side has lost an airship so far, but this leaves Italy relatively stronger in the air, because of her greater number of craft at the outset.

WIRE ENTANGLEMENT PROBLEM.

It is interesting to note that the French Government has enlisted the services of the Academy of Science with a view to securing some substitute for high explosive shells for the destruction of wire entanglements. These entanglements represent the most effective agent in halting an infantry attack, and in the way they are now being constructed, with a tremendous depth along the front of the trenches, it is impossible for infantry to cut through them before the cannon, machine-guns, and rifles of the defenders completely wipe out the attackers. The entanglements have to be at least partly destroyed by mechanical means before the infantry dare advance, and apparently the only method adopted with any degree of success so far has been to turn a tornado of high explosive shell upon the network of wire. It only needs a second's consideration for one to realise what a tremendously costly matter this is. It was reported early in the campaign that in some cases long ropes fitted with a series of hooks were projected across the entanglements, and then hauled in by mechanical means, bringing away large sections of the wire with them; but this device was only adopted where the trenches were very close together. There seems, however, to be a germ in the idea that might be developed into bigger things. If it proves that artillery, and artillery only, is the agent to be relied upon to cut the network of wires, then it looks as though we will be forced to return to a projectile something on the lines of the old chain-shot for this especial purpose. In any case, seeing that the efficacy of wire entanglements has been so long established, the wonder is that the problem more effectively dealing with them was not given greater consideration before this campaign started, and something better than the expensive method of a hurricane of high explosive shells evolved.

THE SUBMARINE.

An interesting commentary on submarine warfare appears in a recent "Dublin Review" over the signature of Mr. A. H. Pollen, a well-known authority on the subject. After reviewing the naval history of the present campaign, he comes to the conclusion that, broadly speaking, the submarine, judged by the standard of the work it was expected to accomplish, has proved a failure. Before the war Mr. Pollen wrote that the submarine was and must remain the weapon of the weaker naval Power, inasmuch as the stronger naval Power would hold the seas without submarines. That the stronger naval Power would necessarily be exposed to submarine attack was admitted. And as submarines could not attack submarines, or, rather, could not be used as the defence against them, the possession of submarines by the stronger naval Power seemed unnecessary. At the same time, he pointed out that enemy submarines might "do more than embarrass our Fleet," and that no scheme of counter-attack had been devised. Mr. Pollen now considers that the actual performances of the submarine during the war have been comparatively insignificant, and he emphasises the point that the loss of the Aboukir, Cressy, Hogue, Hawke, Formidable, and Niger was preventable. No transports or auxiliary vessels, excepting one hospital ship, has suffered from submarine attack, although these have been constantly plying backwards and forwards across the Channel. From January 21 to March 3 there were, as regards merchant vessels alone, "less than .2 per cent. of targets hit, and less than .4 per cent. of targets attacked to targets available." The limitations of the submarine are "its low speed, its limited field of view, and its extreme vulnerability. It cannot maintain itself against an enemy at all, except by sinking." Nor can it aim a torpedo without at the same time aiming the whole vessel, because the torpedo tubes are fixed. Mr. Pollen affirms that up to the time of the declaration of the German submarine blockade, the submarine was not opposed by methods other than ordinary vigilance and good seamanship; but that after the declaration of the blockade there began the counter-offensive. In what that counter-offensive consists Mr. Pollen cannot, of course, explain; but he expresses his absolute confidence in its efficacy; and believes that it "will so profoundly affect the employment of submarines as to make even the shadow of menace from this source seem ridiculous."

CASUALTIES.

7961 OFFICERS AND MEN.

The thirty-eighth list issued last night brings the total losses of the Australian troops at the Dardanelles up to 7961.

The total (which does not include sickness) is made up as follows:—

Killed.—Officers, 133; other ranks, 1096. Total, 1229.

Wounded.—Officers, 288; other ranks, 6198. Total, 6486.

Missing.—Officers, 26; other ranks, 220. Total, 246.

In regard to those members of the force reported as wounded, the military authorities desire it to be clearly understood that the department possesses no other information than has already been communicated to next-of-kin. In the absence of further reports Egypt advises that it is reasonable to assume that all wounded are progressing satisfactorily. Should further information be received the next-of-kin will be immediately notified by the Defence Department.

IN TURKEY.

LETTERS FROM THE FIRING LINE.

DEEDS OF THE SOLDIERS.

The following extracts are taken from a letter sent by Lance-corporal V. F. Marshall, of Paddington, Sydney, who was wounded in the recent action at the Dardanelles:—

"The bugler is one of the well-cursed members of the contingent—he stands for detested punctuality. The reveille at 6 a.m. annoys the men into wakefulness, and his 'lights out' at 9 p.m. snuffs the light in the middle of a lovely book.

"Although the bugler represents punctuality, he does not always fulfil his position as completely as he should. The romantic idea of reveille—the awakening of the gallant regiment from its slumbers by the stirring notes of the bugle is quite wrong. The bugler invariably likes sleep, and will remain under the waterproof sheet until he is dragged forth into morning air at the last moment to join in creating a joyful din.

"As you know no doubt by now I have been in action. The Turks took a great fancy to me, and on the close of the second day a sniper put a bullet through my left shoulder, and it went exploring down among my ribs, and caused awful pain, internal bleeding, and coughing. The bullet has not been located yet, but I am going under the X-Rays this week. It is nothing to worry about; I feel like a lion on a chain, and I will be in the firing line again very soon.

"At 4 a.m. last Sunday week numerous transports heavily laden with troops, and guarded jealously by ships of the British navy, including 'Lizzie' (Queen Elizabeth), glided slowly and without lights up the coast of Gallipoli. Dawn showed an awful surprise for the Turks, and the guns of the navy began to show their teeth. The din was awful, and all the time the troops were being landed the Turks were shelling them with shrapnel. The enemy here has a lot of guns, and the navy is having great difficulty in smashing them, but it will all come right in time. It is awful country, and the Turks know it well. The shrapnel and the snipers are the main trouble; they pick off the officers and N.C.Os. like wildfire. The boys fought wonderfully well. It was a great sight; the 'Lizzie' and others were bombarding all the time. I often wonder if you can hear the 'Lizzie' at Sydney. She makes such a row, and when she speaks everything vibrates.

"I was shot at headquarters while despatch-carrying."

SPIRIT OF THE TROOPS.

Mr. Austin Chapman, M.P., is in receipt of a letter from his nephew, Rupert Chapman, who went to the front with Colonel Ryrie's Brigade, in which he says they are all in good health, and he hopes the accounts to hand prove the Australian grit. He writes that a great number of the wounds are in the feet, caused by the Turks planting beds of sharp spikes in the sea. Of those sent back to Australia only two are from his regiment, and they had both been crippled through no fault of their own. Colonel Ryrie is working hard, and with his officers and all in command of the 7th Regiment has the goodwill and good opinion of everyone.

FOOTBALLERS IN BATTLE.

Private J. Gregory, a well-known member of the Sydney Football Club (Australian Rules), writes to the hon. secretary of the Mozart Juvenile Harriers from Mena House Hospital:—"I received an injury to my wrist in the early stages of our engagement at the Dardanelles, which put me out of action, and I am now hoping to recover soon. I did not feel very pleased about it, because when the doctor bandaged my arm, he would not allow me to return to the fighting, saying it would only be suicide, so they put me on board again, and I watched the engagement for a day and a half. The work by our boys and the navy was splendid, and my word you should see the guns on the warships working; they do blow things about. You have by now heard of our landing, but I must say that where we went ashore the place was considered impregnable by the Turks, who showered lead from machine-guns and rifles at us, and shrapnel was flying all around. Our boys charged through with fixed bayonets, taking up a position which they have held since, and which I think they can hold for ever. Every man who went under was a hero, and most of the boys here are ready to return, and do a bit more towards the freedom of the Empire. Montie McCalman had a bullet through his cap without touching his head, but another went through his pack and penetrated his back, while another bullet shot through his heel. He is nearly fit again for the front. There are a lot of Australian footballers with us, Grantie, Martin, and Divire were all well when I saw them last." (The lastnamed has since been reported killed.)

TURKISH MACHINE GUNS.

BERRY, Monday.

Sergeant W. J. Host, who has been wounded at the Dardanelles, in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Host, in Berry, says:—"I don't know how I escaped with only a bullet in the left upper arm; it did not even break a bone, but went straight through, leaving only a nasty hole. I got hit about 12 o'clock on Sunday. I thought that a horse had kicked me. It numbed all my arm and left side, and I had to lie in the firing-line for two hours, and every minute expected another bullet. The Turks had about ten machine guns to our one, and whenever we mounted a gun it got blown to pieces before it had fired 100 rounds. If we had had our own artillery to help us the Turks would have been finished the first day we landed. We saw more fighting on that Sunday than three months during the South African war."

FOR THE WOUNDED.

FORMER BISHOP'S RESIDENCE.

Shortly after the war broke out, Mr. Langdon, of Langdon and Langdon, offered the authorities rent free the use of the house and grounds known as Broughton Hall, on the Parramatta River, at Leichhardt.

The property was acquired and the house built for Bishop Broughton, the first Anglican Bishop of Sydney. More recently it was the residence of the late Mr. John Keep. The grounds consist of an area of about 24 acres, beautifully laid out with lawns, roseries, hedges, fish ponds, summer houses, and in parts resembles a tropical jungle, so luxuriant is the growth. The house is solidly built, and will afford accommodation for at least 60 wounded soldiers. Gas and water are laid on, and the property is within easy distance of the tram.

The Premier has received the following further offers to accommodate wounded soldiers:—Royal North Shore Hospital, 50 beds while the war lasts; Mrs. A. E. Craig, Greenwich, accommodation for one soldier.

A movement is on foot among University women to provide a bed for our wounded soldiers in one of the military hospitals. Contributions may be sent to Miss Austin, Municipal Library, Queen Victoria Markets.

RECRUITING.

DAY OF THE BANTAMS.

MORE GOOD MEN.

The recruiting yard at the barracks was filled with a steady stream of good men yesterday, and, curiously enough, they were all on the small side. In one squad of about 30 there were not three men over 5ft 6in, and as the recruiting sergeant remarked "the little 'uns are coming up now, all right." And they were real bantams, too, for out of that particular squad nearly every man ranged from 5ft 2in to 5ft 4in.

One man particularly deserves notice. He was turned down some weeks ago because his chest measurement did not come up to standard. He put in some weeks of hard work, and brought it up to requirements, and after all that trouble found his height was against him. He went back to a physical culturist, and by certain exercises managed to add to his height as well as his chest expansion. Time and time again he turned up at the barracks, only to be turned down; in all he came up nine times, but yesterday his persistence gained the day, and now he, having been passed by the doctors, is a full-blown member of the next Australian Expeditionary Corps.

Others who offered their services included a telegraphist, a jeweller, an architect, and a man who had served for five years in the mountain section of the Royal Garrison Artillery. They were followed by a youth from one of the colleges in Sydney University, two barmen (they don't often turn up, except on Sundays), and a man who had been a steward for five years in the Royal Navy. This little lot was followed by a bank clerk and several other useful sort of men, and altogether the muster, which was not far short of 200, drew eucomiums from the recruiting sergeant and the enrolling officer. "They mayn't be much in size," said the former, "but they are just the very class of men we want, small, hard, and nuggetty."

Mr. William J. Adams received a cable today from London concerning his sons, who left for England by the Morea in April last. It reads:—"Barton (Sol.) joining Royal Flying Corps; Dudley Royal Field Artillery. Commissions expected shortly. Both well."

A relation of several soldiers desires to state that there has been growing all over the State this season immense quantities of corn husks, which are being destroyed as worthless. These husks made ideal beds, easy to dry, light to carry, and very hygienic. Mattresses made from them do not wear out, as the husks will keep for 20 years. No doubt, the correspondent writes, the husks would be carried free on steamers, and on the railway, and would prove a lasting comfort to the troops, keeping them in the best of health, especially during the winter months, now upon us.

The teachers and pupils of Burwood S.P.S. farewelled Mr. W. H. Jones, one of their teachers who is proceeding to the front. He was the recipient of a wristlet watch and smoking outfit.

Mr. J. W. Davis, son of the late Mr. Thomas Davis, and head of the firm of Thomas Davis, Sheedy, and Company, public accountants, who is leaving with the Light Horse, was given a farewell dinner by residents of Turramurra, and presented by his friends with a fine black charger.

On Friday evening Mr. H. Bartrop, who is leaving for the front, and Mr. Greg Hooff, who has just enlisted, were entertained at a dinner by the Gordons Cricket Club (Centennial Park Association) at the Cafe Francais, George-street. Ex-Senator Oakes, who presided, presented both members with a wristlet watch.

Four young men belonging to the Palmer-street Presbyterian Church—Messrs. John Crawford, John Fischer, John Boyd, and Jas. Powell—who have enlisted, were made the recipients of wristlet watches from the congregation during the service last Sunday evening.

Mr. C. H. Finch, of the staff of Mr. Burcham Clamp, architect, who has joined the engineers, was entertained by his fellow officers at dinner on Friday evening, and afterwards at the theatre. During the evening he was presented with a smoker's outfit and a fountain pen.

Messages have been received from members of the Expeditionary Forces in Egypt addressed as follows:—(Cairo) to Mrs. Palmer, 44 Guildford-street, Liverpool, N.S.W.; MacCulloch, Homebush; Mrs. Morris, 22 Russell-street, Forest Lodge; Dempsey, 27 Dillon-street, Paddington. Addressees are requested to communicate with the Eastern Extension Cable Co., 11 O'Connell-street.

Arrangements have been made by the Commonwealth Bank of Australia, under which direct cable remittances will be made to the Anglo-Egyptian Bank, Ltd., at Malta, to be paid to members of the Expeditionary Forces, and such remittances will be made free of exchange up to £25 on application being made to the Commonwealth Bank. Cable messages can be sent either at full rates, 3s 6d per word; deferred rates, 1s 8½d per word; or week-end rates, 10½d per word. Arrangements have also been made for cable remittances to be forwarded to London for payment to members of the forces who are at present there recuperating from wounds.

Miss Pearl Corkhill, who is shortly leaving for the front, was on Friday night last entertained at a farewell supper by the nurses at Herbertsleigh, Manly (where Miss Corkhill was senior sister), and presented with several valuable and useful gifts.

The names of Messrs. B. Williams, J. M'Cabe, and T. Lamond have been added to the list already published of members of the Leichhardt Rowing Club who have joined the A.I. expeditionary forces, making 29 in all.

Mr. Vincent J. Brady, B.A., a member of the staff of the Orange High School, who is shortly leaving for the front with the Army Medical Corps, was farewelled by the staff and pupils on the eve of his departure from Orange. Mr. A. M. Armstrong, B.A., headmaster, on behalf of the staff, presented Mr. Brady with a wristlet watch, and Master Keith Stamford, on behalf of the pupils, with a cigarette-holder in case.

MEAT EXPORT.

SHIPMENTS FOR ENGLAND SEIZED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Acting under the authority of the State Government 12 trucks of meat which were being shipped to London were seized at Victoria dock to-day. A cargo of over 37,000 carcases had been sent away some days previously by the same consignor (W. Angliss and Co.). The seizure was made in consequence of the determination of the Cabinet that no more meat should be allowed to leave Victoria because of a shortage of supplies here.

The Premier (Sir Alexander Peacock), after the meeting of the Cabinet to-night, made the following statement:—"Practically the whole of the time of the Cabinet to-day has been occupied in discussing a matter which has arisen out of a report, submitted by the Minister for Agriculture to the effect that 37,000 odd carcases of mutton and lamb had been shipped to London early this week in defiance of the Government's orders that frozen meat in stock was to be kept for local consumption. It was understood that this meat was to have made up the short shipments which should have left by the Moldavia last month for the use of the Imperial authorities. It was learned at the end of last week that none of this meat was available to fulfil the Imperial contract, but that it had been shipped on civilian account. The Cabinet decided last Monday that no more meat should be exported to fulfil private requirements. It now appears that W. Angliss and Co. have taken the matter into their own hands, notwithstanding an agreement on the subject to place all stocks and resources at the disposal of the Federal Government. All exporters were informed on Thursday last of the decision of the Government, that no meat should be shipped, so that this action by this particular firm is in defiance of the expressed wish of the Government."

RIFLEMEN'S CARNIVAL.

In order to prevent confusion in the squadding of the 7000 members of rifle clubs who are to take part in the review at the riflemen's carnival in aid of the Belgian Fund at the Randwick range on Prince of Wales's Birthday, a trial drill of each of the seven battalions has been arranged. The first parade will be held on Thursday evening at Government House grounds, when 5000 men will be drilled in close column of platoons, in which formation the carnival review will take place.

MEN OF THE DARDANELLES.

LIEUT.-COLONEL BURNAGE.

A cable message has been received from Lieut.-Colonel Burnage, D.S.O., by his sister, Mrs. Squirrel, of Newcastle, reading:—"In hospital; wounded both arms; speedy recovery."

CAPTAIN TOWNSHEND.

PERTH, Sunday.

A meeting of the Convocation of the University of Western Australia passed a resolution of deep regret at the death of Captain Townshend, who was killed in action in the Dardanelles, and resolved to send a message of sympathy to his mother, who resides in Sydney.

LIEUT. T. O. SMYTH.

Lieutenant Trevor Owen Smyth, who has been killed in action, was 28 years of age. He was the elder of the two sons of Mr. C. E. Owen Smyth, I.S.O. (Superintendent of Public Buildings, Adelaide). After having been educated at St. Peter's College, Adelaide, he was associated with the staff of the Bank of New South Wales in Adelaide, then he proceeded as a cadet to the bank's Cutbroo sheep station, on the River Murray. Prior to that time he had received a commission in the 10th Adelaide Rifles. Lieutenant Owen Smyth had during the last few years preceding the war lived principally in the back country of Northern Queensland, where he was looking for sheep land. He had decided to take up a small property west of Rockhampton, and had paid a deposit on it. The outbreak of the war, however, altered his plans, and he returned immediately to Adelaide to enrol in the 10th Battalion. He was a man of genial disposition, of powerful physique, and a splendid horseman. He was noted for his skill with the rifle and revolver.

SERGEANT J. MORRISON.

Sergeant J. Maidment Morrison, who has been wounded, was a nephew of the late Mrs. Donald Cameron, of Tasmania, and also a cousin of Colonel (ex-Senator) St. Clair Cameron, C.B., who is at present in Egypt. He was formerly a major in the Royal Irish Rifles, and served in the South African war. Sergeant Morrison holds the King's and Queen's medals for the South African war, and also the South African war medals with several bars. When the present war broke out he volunteered for active service, and went to the front as a platoon sergeant before the call for Imperial officers came from England.

SERGEANT-MAJOR FOOTE.

Company Sergeant-Major G. L. R. Foote, of the 13th Battalion, who was recently reported as dangerously ill, is the eldest son of Mr. T. J. Foote, one of the lay secretaries of the C.E.M. Society for New South Wales. Sergt. Foote received his education at Kegworth and Fort-street High School. He first joined the scouts under Scoutmaster Johnstone, afterwards the cadets at Fort-street, where he soon reached the rank of sergeant. On leaving school he became attached to the 36th division (Stanmore) area, under Major Martin, where he rose to the position of lieutenant. Prior to enlistment he was employed in the electrical branch of the tramway service at Randwick.

SERGEANT CONNELLAN.

Company Quartermaster-Sergeant James A. Connellan (wounded) is 25 years of age, and his parents reside at Great Buckingham-street, Redfern. He was educated at St. Benedict's School, and was an old member of the N.S.W. Irish Rifles, which he joined in 1908. He was promoted sergeant in 1909, and Colour-Sergeant 1912. On the outbreak of war he left for the front with the 1st Battalion as colour-sergeant, under the late Captain A. G. McGuire. Whilst in Egypt he was promoted to Q.M.S.

SERGEANT FLOWERS.

Sergt. George Victor Flowers, of Mayfield, Newcastle (wounded), is a native of Dublin. He enlisted from Newcastle, where he had resided for about two years.

SERGEANT CAVILL AND LANCE-CORPORAL PRUTTON.

A memorial service in honour of Sergeant W. W. Cavill and Lance-corporal F. Prutton, both of whom were residents of the town, and killed in the Dardanelles, was held in St. Stephen's Church of England, Portland, on Sunday morning. The Cement Company's Band was in attendance, as well as the militia, senior cadets, friendly societies, Ambulance Brigade, and a large congregation. The service was conducted by the Rev. E. A. Homfray, who also had a cousin, Lieutenant J. R. Homfray, son of Colonel H. Homfray, of Penlyn Castle, Cowbridge, South Wales, killed in the present war at Zillebeke.

SECOND SHIFT.

LABOUR MEN TALK STRAIGHT.

PROMPT ACTION URGED.

LITHGOW, Monday.

At the annual dinner of the local branch of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, held on Saturday night, a strong patriotic note was struck in regard to the supply of munitions, and pungent criticism was levelled at the Federal Government concerning the delay in the establishment of the second shift at the Small Arms Factory.

Alderman Cornwell, president of the A.S.E., said that Lithgow had a unique opportunity to help. The question for each to answer was: "What are you going to do for those who have done so much for you? Are you going to quibble over those little things that are justified in peace times or are you going to do your best?" He could answer for them and for himself.—"We are going to do our best for the men at the post of danger. We are going to do our best to make the output of rifles—wofully insufficient at the present time—considerably larger. I hope you are going to see that the factory is worked every hour of the day and night. In the past I have advocated two shifts because, when we found there was such determined opposition to a second shift, we thought it best to endeavour to obtain two shifts to show that these can be successful, and then go for a third. To my mind, speaking as a Labour man, the Labour party has pursued a disgraceful policy in this matter. (Hear, hear.) Physically and mentally, a man is worn out after these months of overtime, and in that case do you mean to tell me a man can do as much in 12 hours as he formerly could in 8? (Cries of "No.") It is a disgraceful thing that the Labour party should allow such a state of affairs to continue for 10 months. But times have changed, and it is for us to do our best to make this second shift successful. Let us help our gallant boys and our Allies by turning out every rifle possible. Then, at the end of the war, we at least can say we did our duty."

Mr. W. P. Pedersen, secretary, said he could not help wondering how many more reports the Government wanted before the second shift was instituted. Four reports had already been given, and now the Minister was calling a conference in regard to the state of the labour market. He supposed that would be a fit subject for a fifth report. He was glad they had come to the conclusion that the second shift was necessary. They all realised it was incumbent on them to supply more munitions to the troops of Europe and to the men in the Dardanelles to help to put down once and for all the German Emperor and his tyrannical mob. He did not consider the delay in regard to the second shift reflected any credit on the Labour party. He trusted that the shift would be instituted immediately.

Mr. Dixon, secretary of the Federated Ironworkers' Association, congratulated the branch on the successful issue to the efforts made to secure the second shift, but regretted that it came at a time when there was a change in the management. He asked them, however, not to anticipate the second shift, as he had had experiences of Ministers and Governments, which were not entirely satisfactory. A bonus had been given to the iron industry, and he was assured before this was done that the wages of the workmen would be put on a fair and equitable basis. This had not been done.

Mr. G. Dunn, president of the Federated Enginedrivers' Association, contended that Mr. Carr should have been present to tell them what the Government's intentions were in regard to the second shift, and when they were going to institute it. As a Labour man he deplored the fact that a party whose fundamental principle was the cause of humanity should have allowed the factory to stand idle half its time when every rifle not turned out might have meant that precious lives had been sacrificed.

Mr. Mackay, president of the Factory Union, explained that his union was not against the second shift. He told the Minister that members were prepared either to work overtime or a second shift while the war lasted.

Several speakers also severely criticised the members for the district.

FEDERAL CAUCUS.

TROUBLE IN THE LABOUR PARTY.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A somewhat novel event is taking place in Federal politics this week, when a mid-session special caucus meeting of the Federal Labour party is being held.

Mr. Fisher's explanation is that the caucus is merely meeting to discuss the question of getting the business of Parliament through with more expedition. But it is well-known that for the past few months Ministerialists have not been a very happy family, and ordinary means having failed to bring about an understanding between the discontents it has been decided to thrash out all differences in the seclusion of the party room rather than on the floor of the Chamber, as has been the case several times of late.

Ministers are tired of being subjected to bitter attacks from a certain section of senators and members whenever an opportunity offers, and then again there are many in the rank and file who do not agree in all things with the Ministers, and they desire a chance of expressing themselves more freely than is possible on the floor of the House.

When Mr. Fisher took the chair at half-past 2 this afternoon there was practically a full attendance of members. Although nothing official could be learned, it was gleaned privately that there was a free ventilation of grievances in the secrecy of the caucus room. Those members who are discontented with the efforts of the Ministry were particularly caustic in their remarks, while in reply, Ministers, it is stated, took off the gloves, and said even more than what they might have been expected to say on the floor of the House if they had been free to express their feelings. It is understood that the electrical disturbance had the effect of considerably clearing the air.

The most contentious matter brought forward was the question as to what should be the next business submitted to Parliament after the Estimates have been disposed of. Although it was generally conceded that the referendum was a most important matter, the majority were in favour of the tariff being got out of the way first of all.

No decision, however, was come to when the meeting adjourned till to-morrow afternoon.

THE DOMAIN.

LITTLE SLICE FOR THE HOSPITAL.

Another little piece of the park lands in the city is to be filched.

The Chief Secretary (Mr. Black) announced at a meeting of the Health Society yesterday that certain additions to the Sydney Hospital were required to provide for the venereal clinics and other accommodation, and he was afraid it would be necessary to erect these buildings on what was now Domain land. He was much averse, he said, to encroaching on the public parks, but the hospital authorities had, it seemed, suffered by the widening of Macquarie-street, and some promise had been made to them by Mr. Wade when he was in power, and it was repeated by Mr. M'Gowen later, that they should have sufficient ground for their requirements at the back of the present building. That promise would have to be honoured, and a small portion of the park lands sacrificed.

STATE TRAWLERS.

A cargo of fish was sold in the Municipal Markets yesterday morning, and realised 6s 8d a box. The fish was the Gunundaal's catch—60 baskets for only a few hours' trawling.

BROOKLYN, Monday.

At a meeting of fishermen held here on Saturday night it was resolved to ask the Minister, through the member for the district, to put a refrigerating car on to carry fish from the Hawkesbury River, and for the Government to take full control of the distribution and sale of fish, paying fishermen a flat rate per pound.

CHILDREN'S HOME LESSONS.

BRISBANE, Monday.

The Minister for Public Instruction, Mr. Hardacre, intends to abolish home lessons in the case of children other than those studying for examination.

DARING ROBBERY.

A BOLD SCHEME.

TRAY OF DIAMOND RINGS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

One of the most desperate and daring robberies on a large scale was carried out in broad daylight in the heart of Melbourne this morning. A thief at half-past 10 o'clock broke a plate-glass window of the shop of William Drummond and Co., 344 Collins-street, with a mallet, and rushed away with a tray of diamond rings, ranging in value from £8 to £190, and of the total value of £3500.

The thief was joined by two other men, and all three scampered through the Royal Hotel, two doors away from Drummonds, and made their escape through Fleming-place, a lane which joins Little Collins-street at the back.

Several persons, including some of Drummond's salesmen, followed the men through the hotel, but on reaching the back bar they were blocked by folding doors, on one side of which was a man belonging to the gang, who presented a revolver at his pursuers. He then fastened the doors by a chain, and himself bolted away. A fourth man was seen to run up Collins-street, and disappear round Queen-street. All the gang got safely away, in spite of the number of people about at the time.

Two of the more valuable rings were picked up in Collins-street. Good descriptions have been furnished to the detectives investigating the robbery. Large crowds loitered for hours round Drummond's shop, which is one of the largest and most expensively stocked in Melbourne.

REVOLTING TRAGEDY.

MAN AND WOMAN KILLED.

BOY AN EYE-WITNESS.

A shocking crime was reported to the Petersham police at a late hour on Sunday night, the victims being Ernest Alfred Mathiessen and his married sister, Mrs. Tucker. Mathiessen was killed under particularly atrocious circumstances, being tied to a chair and beaten on the head with the butt end of a revolver. The woman met her death through repeated blows with a hatchet.

According to the story told to the police last night by Claude Tucker, the 15-year-old son of the deceased woman, his father, John Thomas Tucker, who had recently been arrested and sent to gaol for not complying with an order for maintaining his wife, returned to their home at 10 Stafford-street, Stanmore, at about 2 a.m. on Sunday. He climbed in the back window, and found nobody but the mother and boy about the place. He ordered the boy to get up and sleep on the floor. He then tied his wife's hands and feet to the bedpost, and got into bed, where he remained until about 8.30 on Sunday morning. At that time, the other victim of the crime, Ernest Matheson, who was Tucker's brother-in-law, called, knocking at the front door. Tucker told his wife to open the door, she, apparently, in the meantime having freed herself. Tucker then invited him into the bedroom, and as soon as he was in the room drew two revolvers, at the same time ordering the boy to bind his uncle's eyes and tie his hands. He then bade deceased sit down in a chair, and, according to the boy, proceeded to beat him on the head with the butt-end of one of the revolvers. Matheson soon relapsed into unconsciousness, and died a little while later. Tucker then went to bed again, ordering the child to lie down on the floor. He remained in bed all day, and towards evening the boy began to doze, the nervous strain of the corpse being in the room becoming too much. At about 9 o'clock last night he was awakened by a cry from his mother, whom he found with blood running from her head. He ran over to kiss her, and she groaned. The father, it is alleged, then struck her again, and continued to do so at every groan she gave. She died at 11 o'clock. Tucker then tried to shoot himself, and then went out of the house. The boy then escaped and was able to give the alarm.

Inspector Brooks, of the Petersham station, assigned the inquiry into the Stanmore tragedy to Sergeant Beater and Constable Hogan. Their report states that on visiting No. 10 Stafford-street, Stanmore, about midnight on Sunday, they found the place in a dreadful state. Ernest Alfred Mathiessen's dead body was partly under the bed, and his sister, Mrs. Jane Florence Tucker, was lying almost dead on the bed. The latter's son, Claude, who witnessed practically the whole of the tragedy, said that his father, after the murderous attacks, turned down the gas and said good-bye to his son. He then fired a revolver shot into his head and went away.

Claude Tucker then jumped over the fence and told a neighbour of the dreadful events. Search was made for Tucker. He was found by the police at the residence of another sister in Albany-road, Stanmore. His victims had been removed to the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, where, it was found that Mathiessen was dead; Mrs. Tucker died soon after admission. Tucker was also taken to the same hospital suffering from a bullet wound in the right side of the face, which is not expected to be fatal.

It is stated by the police that 18 months ago Tucker was an inmate of an asylum for the insane.

(Portion of the above appeared in yesterday's late edition.)

THE COLLIERIES.

THIRTEEN MONTHS' STRIKE.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

The miners at Whitburn colliery have now been on strike 13 months, and although several attempts have been made to settle the dispute nothing of a satisfactory nature has resulted. On Wednesday next another endeavour will be made to overcome the difficulty. Representatives from both sides will meet and inspect the pillars, the working of which is the only trouble now remaining.

Stockton Borehole colliery is to resume work on Wednesday next. The trouble that caused the strike there over a week ago has been settled.

The executive officers of the Colliery Employees' Federation say that there are nearly 3000 miners out of work or partially employed owing to the closing down of mines and a shortage of explosives. A special meeting of the union of this district is being convened for Saturday next to take a united move in the matter.

The Department of Labour and Industry place the number of men at 1780 as being unemployed. Of that total 1171 are miners.

JUVENILE SMOKERS.

MORE POWERS TO POLICE.

The suppression, or at all events the checking, of the baneful habit of cigarette smoking by juveniles is a matter that the Chief Secretary (Mr. Black) is taking in hand.

Mr. Black told a meeting of the Health Society yesterday that one reason why more men than women suffered from consumption was because women did not "make smoke-stacks of themselves." He then went on to refer to the vicious habit of cigarette smoking that was sapping the bloom and natural physical vigour of the youth. It was causing great havoc, and making neuropathic wrecks. The Juvenile Smoking Act did not go far enough, in that it did not prevent smoking by boys, but only made the sale of tobacco and cigarettes to them illegal. It was proposed to strengthen the hands of the police, so that they might bring up every juvenile found smoking in the streets, and endeavour to make him realise the enormity of the offence, not only to his own body, but to the community in general. The girls growing up in our midst were sturdier and generally healthier looking than the boys, and the reason for this was that they did not practise this pernicious habit. Cigarette smoking robbed boys of their stamina, and made them less useful citizens than they would be if this habit did not get them in its awful embrace while they were children.

RECRUITING IN VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

There were 313 volunteers at the Victoria Barracks to-day, and 190 were passed by doctors.

CIVIL SERVICE INCREMENTS.

The Premier made a statement yesterday regarding increments in the Civil Service. Mr. Holman said his view is that, as the close of the financial year is imminent, the appropriate course in all interests is to await the commencement of the new financial year before varying the decision in regard to salaries above the £200 mark.

EXPLORER AND SOLDIER.

CAPTAIN BAGE KILLED.

Captain Edward Frederick Robert Bage, 3rd Field Company Engineers, who was killed at the Dardanelles, was the only son of the late Edward Bage, merchant, of Melbourne. He was born in 1888, and began his military career in 1909 as second lieutenant in the Corps of Australian Engineers. In 1911 he joined the Antarctic expedition under Sir Douglas Mawson as astronomer, assistant magnetician, and recorder of tides. He was one of the six volunteers forming the relief party left in the Antarctica for a second winter when Sir Douglas and his ill-fated companions had failed to return to winter quarters at the appointed time.

Captain Bage was leader of the southern sledging party which accomplished a perilous journey of 600 miles, man-hauling their sledge over rough, blizzard-swept ice surfaces. He afterwards contributed the chapter entitled "The Quest of the Southern Magnetic Pole" to Sir Douglas Mawson's book "The Home of the Blizzard." He was awarded the King's Polar Medal this year. On mobilisation being ordered in August last he took up duty at Port Phillip Heads. When the first Australian division for service abroad was formed he volunteered for service, and was appointed second in command of the 3rd Field Company Engineers, with the rank of captain.

NATIONAL EFFICIENCY.

STATE MINISTRIES TAKE ACTION.

AMERICAN COMMISSIONER.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The State Ministry has decided, in conjunction with the South Australian and the New South Wales Ministries, to appoint a professor of economics to investigate the question of the national efficiency of Victoria, New South Wales, and South Australia. The appointment is not to be made with the idea of speeding up the workers, but in order to indicate wherein the people of the Commonwealth may best improve themselves in order to equal or excel the people of other nations.

The Minister for Public Works (Mr. Hagelthorn), who has been chiefly concerned in bringing about this appointment, said to-day that it was proposed that a professor of economics from the United States of America should be brought out to Australia to inquire into the conditions which obtained here, and to suggest methods which might with advantage be adopted to increase national efficiency.

"Some of the professors in the United States," continued Mr. Hagelthorn, "have given special attention to the activities of the nation, and have been able from time to time to make valuable suggestions to increase the general prosperity."

CASUALTIES.

FIVE INFANTS KILLED.

The City Coroner (Mr. H. S. Hawkins) yesterday held inquiries into the cause of death of five infants. In each case a verdict of accidental death was returned.

Donald Gilliam, 13 months, on the 30th ult., at Gurner-street, Paddington, upset over himself a cup of hot tea, and died from the effects of the scalding received.

James Ordridge Tanner, 2 years and 7 months, on the 6th inst., while playing in a yard at Bourke-street, Sydney, fell on a pair of scissors, which penetrated his temple fatally.

On the 7th inst. Edwin Bruce Robinson, 1 year and 4 months, died from burns at Reynolds-street, Neutral Bay, owing to a spirit stove being upset.

Sadie Marjory Kenney, 1 year and 11 months, on the 9th inst., at Sutherland-street, Mascot, upset a pot containing boiling stew, and died from scalds.

Two women, Alice Wilson and Holly Dignan, met Elsie Duncan with her baby at the State Children's Relief Deaprtment, on the 3rd instant. After conversation, Duncan gave the woman her baby, Ronald, aged 6 months, to look after, as she was going to a hospital to undergo an operation. The same night the two women slept in the same bed with the baby between them. In the morning the latter was found to have been overlain, and was dead.

Dr. Palmer, Government Medical Officer, said it was absurd to have a child in a 4ft 6in wide bedstead with two women, especially as neither was the mother.

Leslie Spinks, 2 years of age, son of Mr. F. Spinks, Rothery-street, Bellambi, fell into a tub of hot water at his parents' residence on Saturday evening, and sustained severe scalds. The child died two hours later.

PERTH, Monday.

Johnston, M.L.A., was shot through misadventure at his home, Greenmount, on Saturday afternoon, and is now in a serious condition. The body of a man, supposed to be named John J. Park, this being the name on the basket containing his clothing, was found suspended from the bridge over Brown's Creek. Deceased was a stranger here, having only arrived a few days ago. It is believed that he had been gum-digging in New Zealand. He had informed a fellow-lodger that he was penniless.

At a meeting of the council of the Chamber of Manufactures yesterday afternoon it was unanimously resolved that the council of the chamber recommend the manufacturers of the State to follow a policy of preference to returned soldiers wherever possible. It was pointed out that a large number of manufacturers had undertaken to keep positions open for their employees who had gone to the front, and that they were paying the difference between the wages which the men had been receiving and their pay as soldiers.

GOVERNMENT FLOUR.

SUPPLIES FOR BROKEN HILL.

BROKEN HILL, Monday.

Mr. W. D. Barnett, secretary of the A.M.A., stated to-day that he had sent a telegram to Mr. Jabez Wright, M.L.A., accepting the Government offer of cheap flour to members of the A.M.A. The offer was in the following terms:—"If Government sends five tons of flour in 25lb bags will you pay them and sell to members at cost?"

Asked if the cheap flour was to be distributed only amongst A.M.A. members, Mr. Barnett replied that members of other unions would be able to participate in the distribution. "I intend to let them all have a cut in," he said.

THE WAR.

THE ENEMY IN OUR MIDST.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—From the outbreak of the present war I have advocated the internment of all subjects of enemy nations whether naturalised or otherwise, and have endeavoured to prevent the City Council trading with firms on whose share list are the names of Germans resident in Germany, but regret that so far in neither of these schemes have I been wholly successful. At one period I felt certain that the Federal Government and the military authorities were going to intern all aliens, naturalised or unnaturalised; by remarks made from several of the leaders no other interpretation could be held; but they have not taken this, in my opinion, necessary step.

At the meeting of the City Council on June 1 the following resolution, moved by me, was agreed to without discussion:—"That it be referred to the finance committee for consideration and report as to whether the Lord Mayor be requested by this council to take into consideration and report, with a view of dispensing with the services of those now engaged in the council of German or other enemy nationality, whether they be naturalised British subjects or otherwise." This was before the finance committee on Wednesday last, 9th inst., when I moved:—"That the council dispense with the services of those now engaged in the council of German or other enemy nationality, whether they be naturalised British subjects or otherwise"; upon which Alderman Meagher moved the following amendment, which was carried:—"That no employee of the council of enemy nationality be driven from the council's service until it has been proved that such employee has been guilty of disloyalty to the British Empire." As this matter will come before the council on Tuesday night, and I intend to resubmit my motion as an amendment to the recommendation of the finance committee, I shall esteem it a favour if you will grant me space in your columns to set forth a few reasons in support of my action, which I desire to say is not being taken against any individual in particular, but on a broad principle.

It has been clearly and definitely shown in articles which have appeared in the press that the naturalisation of a person who was born in Germany is nothing more or less than a delusion and a sham. When an Englishman takes the oath of allegiance to a foreign nation, and receives a certificate of naturalisation, he ceases then and there to be a British subject, because under existing laws England has no further claim upon him. But what is sauce for the British goose is not sauce for the German gander. Every German is liable to serve in the army or navy—that obligation follows him even though he comes to Australia, and should he evade service he can, the moment he sets foot in his native land, be compelled to fulfil it, and may be severely punished for such evasion, unless he has previously obtained from the Government of his native kingdom or duchy a release from all obligations thereto, and few things in Germany are more difficult to obtain than this "entlassungs urkunde" (document of discharge or release). It is obvious, therefore, that a native of Germany who has migrated to Sydney, and has not received this certificate of discharge, although he may have been naturalised here, is not a Briton if when he returns to Germany he is a Prussian. He never was a Briton, despite his oath of allegiance and certificate of naturalisation, because, according to the law of Germany, which we have neither right nor power to question, he had never ceased to be a German, and it is clearly tenable that those who have not received this "entlassungs urkunde" have no claim to British citizenship, and should, in my opinion, be treated as alien enemies. Dr. Herbert Gibbons, the eminent publicist, in his work "The New Map of Europe," says:—"That remarkable German law which virtually provides that a German in a foreign country may make a false declaration of allegiance to that country, and thereby acquire rights of citizenship there, while all the time retaining his German citizenship and obligations is a very significant illustration of the perfidy and bad faith which penetrates all the international intercourse which Germany arranges with foreign countries."

It is well known that quite a number of naturalised Germans in New South Wales belonged to one or both of the German clubs which, until quite recently, held their meetings in Sydney, but despite the fact that these persons would have us believe they do not agree with the methods employed or atrocities committed by their fellow countrymen during the past 10 months, I have yet to learn that they have carried a resolution of protest—surely the sinking of the Lusitania was sufficient grounds therefor—or a resolution of loyalty to Britain and her allies in the present titanic struggle; so one has only to assume that they who are not openly for us must be against us, and should be dealt with in the same manner as if they were unnaturalised.

Further, we cannot close our eyes to the fact that "blood is thicker than water." I feel certain that persons who were born in the British Empire and had become naturalised in Germany, where they had for business reasons resided for some years, on the outbreak of war their sympathies would naturally be with the country that gave them birth; so we must undoubtedly expect those who were born in Germany to be in sympathy with that nation in the present struggle. I quite agree with a recent correspondent who stated "let us remember they are at present sailing under two flags. If they are German we shall do well to intern them; if they are British, then they must be wholly with us. The unique treachery of Germany calls for a unique response. Beware, then, the disingenuous German who pretends to be British but is merely biding his time."

Much more could be written on this matter—the subject is one of paramount importance not only to New South Wales but the whole Commonwealth; that is my only plea for taking up so much of your valuable space, and I hope that, even now, the Federal Government and military authorities will act as, in my humble opinion, they should by seeing that all alien enemies are placed under efficient surveillance.

I am, etc.,
W. J. WALKER.

Town Hall, June 12.

RED TAPE AND SEALING WAX.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Two of my sons have enlisted, one has been through the terrific Dardanelles fighting, the other is in a battalion on the point of sailing; each has been accustomed from his early years to the use of firearms, and, as addition to his ordinary arms and accoutrements, has provided himself with an automatic pistol. This valuable adjunct to a fighting man's equipment can easily and unostentatiously be carried in a tunic pocket. In a letter received by me yesterday from my son, written on the point of departure from Egypt for the Dardanelles, he tells me that his pistol had just been taken from him by the military authorities, as it was said to be against the rules of war for any soldier of less than commissioned rank (my son being a corporal) to carry one. The foe, recognising no rules, torture and massacre our wounded. It is inconceivable to the authorities that a wounded soldier (though of "less than commissioned rank") attacked by the ghouls of a battlefield, and too sorely hurt to use rifle or bayonet, might yet, with the aid of pistol or revolver, if he could not save his life, at least sell it dearly, reserving perhaps the last bullet for a service the sin of which would surely be washed away.

My son also said that since leaving Australia he had received no letter from us—that on the eve of going into the firing line he hungered sorely for the word from his home-folk that had not arrived. We have written him by every mail, quoting his regimental number, his battalion, etc. We know the letters were correctly addressed, for he mentions the receipt of one from a friend to whom we gave the address; and yet, owing to mismanagement, ours have not been delivered. To a nation at war some confusion, especially in the early stages, may be forgiven, but the bungling, easily avoidable, lack of organisation, disclosed in our case and in others of which I have heard, whereby parent and child, husband and wife, friends and brothers, who may never be re-united, are robbed of the solace that the post should afford, is absolutely criminal.

The comic-opera censorship, too, would be amusing were it not so exasperating. In one letter received by me all references to the place from which it was written were rigorously blotted out, and it was stated that a series of views could not be forwarded until a later mail, as they disclosed the locality, and yet the envelope bore a postmark that with brazen effrontery set forth the information the censor had so carefully removed from the enclosure. In its articles and notes on the war your paper has done noble work in its endeavour to make our men-folk come to a realisation of their responsibilities—will you not do all you can—you have already done much—to cause to ring in the ears of authority the clarion call "Awake!"

AUSTRALIAN NURSES FOR THE FRONT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It is daily becoming more apparent that next in importance to a continuous supply of reinforcements of men and munitions for the front is that of reinforcements for the hospital nursing staff. We all must admit that the noble work being done by these brave women is both dangerous and extremely strenuous, and many of those who have been for some time at the front must very shortly get a rest from their labours to prevent a complete breakdown of their own health.

So far as we of New South Wales are concerned, we can feel proud that we still continue to reply to the demand for male recruits up to more than our share of Australian requirements. It is also evident that the opinions voiced by our Senator E. D. Millen as regards munitions are held by a large section of the community, and there is little doubt that before long we shall be doing our share in this regard also up to the best of our ability. The male recruit for the ranks is at no initial expense out of pocket to himself, but it is not so as regards nurses. Before qualifying they must necessarily have been through a training of from three to five years, and produce a certificate of competency. They must then go to a cash outlay of from £15 to £20 in providing their own equipment, at a cost of from £55 to £40, of which the Defence Department pays £15, and the charitable funds of the Red Cross another £10. A number of certificated nurses anxious to volunteer from purely patriotic reasons, are prevented from doing so by the initial expense that has to be incurred. Many are assisting to support aged and crippled relatives, and in their cases the expense acts as an absolute bar to their patriotism.

Is it not time that the Commonwealth Defence Department treated these noble and necessary workers, at least in part as well as the recruits for the male ranks, by providing every nurse who volunteers and is passed with a full equipment free of expense, for, be it remembered, that the nurse has herself gone through the necessary training, whereas the department has to give such training to the recruit.

I am, etc., A CIVILIAN INVALID.

AUSTRALIA'S SHARE IN THE WAR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—We are not tired or uninterested in reading day after day the enlistment figures, but the information does not fill the whole bill or satisfy the anxious minded as to our true position, nor does it enable us to clearly understand what is in reality being done by Australia, and New South Wales in particular. Colonel Foster, an acknowledged authority on military matters, said some weeks back that if Australia were doing its full share we should have not less than 250,000 men in the field. It is also claimed that, if Germany came out of this war victorious, Great Britain would still go on under King George, intact but impoverished, humiliated, and compelled to pay big war indemnities. India and Egypt would be of little use to Germany, because of their teeming population and the difficulty of government. The United States would probably fight for and get Canada, but Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand, with their climate, fertile soil, and wealth, would come under the German heel and iron rule. Will our workers please think?

There is a very general impression abroad, which seems to be well founded, viz., that it is not the failure of our young men to come forward and enlist, but the want of proper equipment and the great dilatoriness of the stay-at-homes in providing the wherewithal, which is the real cause for delay and just alarm.

The tale of the Small Arms Factory, together with the awful loafing, extravagant pay for overtime, and delay in fitting up the transports at Cockatoo Island, is not only distressing and disloyal, but positively wicked, and will remain a blot on the establishments responsible. It is not "playing the game," and it is decidedly unfair to the men who are now offering their services, and to those still willing to go and fight such terrible battles for them and for all of us.

Moreover, the seemingly flimsy excuses for rejecting men lend colour to the belief that the stay-at-homes are not making good, or working honestly to fully equip in the shortest possible time the men that are willing to risk their all for so great a cause. Recriminations and trying to fix the blame after the war is over will not help us; heart to heart talks and plain speaking are now required. A loafer is a dishonest man at any time, but the slacker who delays and hinders another fighting for his country should be treated as "an enemy within the gate." What arrant hypocrisy it would be to refuse to work with naturalised Germans, or men with German names, and then slow down and fail to make good, endangering the whole system of defence.

We are told that the authorities are in earnest in prosecuting this war, and in so doing it is our bounden duty to assist them, but we could do nit much more easily if they would only tell us in clear, plain English, where the weak link in the system may be located. There is something out of gear when men are refused here who would be accepted in England. Here are two typical cases which came under my notice a few days ago: A stalwart, well-educated man, about 20 years of age, from the North Coast, came to enlist and was rejected because in chest measurement he failed by half an inch. Surely a few days' drill would have given him the military standard. Another, an employee of the Water Board, age 24, a great athlete, was turned away because when he held his hands high up it was shown that one of his arms was shorter than the other. Is it any wonder that people will say that it is not the man's arm which is short, but the want of proper equipment?

If the Government is so harassed in its efforts, let it do as it expects our volunteer soldiers to do, viz., take its courage into both hands and win out, regardless of class-conscious militarism or industrialism. The country is at war and in death's grip with a well-known enemy of civilisation and industrial liberty. Proclaim "martial law," pay the stay-at-home workers who are receiving war money the same rates of pay as those who go to the front and fight; also the same rate of pay for overtime. If they will not work then, and still feel dissatisfied, just reverse the machine, let the shop workers who are fit (and there are enough of them) go to the front, and those who have fought and know how urgently guns, ammunition, and general equipment are required, come back to the zone of safe working, three meals a day and supper, a picture show, and a good bed at night. That would be real Socialism in practice, and would probably kill two deadly enemies to international and domestic peace at one time. It is worth trying. Meanwhile, those who are receiving the highest wages for the shortest number of hours of any employees in the world under similar circumstances will do well to speed up, in case Senator Pearce takes my advice.

I am, etc.,
THOMAS HENLEY.

JINDABYNE TRAGEDY.

MYSTERIOUS SHOT.

COOMA, Monday.

Nothing yet is known as to the perpetrator of the tragedy at Jindabyne on the night of Saturday, June 5, when Samuel William Dalner, aged 45, a farmer, was found lying on the ground near his mother's residence, with a gunshot wound in the back.

The Coroner, Mr. S. B. Gunn, opened the inquest on Monday last, and took further evidence on Friday and Saturday, and then adjourned till June 28.

Evidence was given by Mary Ellenor Dalner (wife of the murdered man). She said she always got on well with the deceased, who was good to the children. She did not know anybody who had an enmity for deceased. The children were later than usual home from the Creel that evening. The deceased was a stern man, but was kind to his family. He had a double-barrelled gun at the house, and her son Albert a single-barrel gun. The son had used his father's gun during the week shooting parrots, but could not have removed the gun that night without being seen by her.

Constable Ford stated that near where deceased's body was lying he saw a number 12 cartridge wad. Deceased's son gave him some cartridges, which were kept at his grandmother's hut. He opened one and found the wad to correspond in colour and size with the one he found near the body. The shots were also the same size as some extracted from the body. He examined the double-barrelled gun. Both barrels were dirty, but the left one appeared to have been more recently discharged. Albert Dalner told him that he used the gun on Friday to shoot parrots, and did not go near his grandmother's place that night.

Theodore Albert Dalner, aged 17, a son of deceased, gave evidence to the effect that he and his sister were setting rabbit traps for about two hours. They heard two shots, and afterwards went to the Creel and delivered milk at the meat house. He did not know that his father was dead until the police arrived late that night. He was shooting parrots with his father's gun on Friday, and did not know whether he used one or two barrels. He did not take the gun with him on the afternoon of June 5, nor had he any words with his father. The inquest was adjourned until June 28, at Cooma.

YANCO COMMISSION.

MR. CARMICHAEL APPOINTED.

A GENERAL INQUIRY.

The State Cabinet yesterday approved of the appointment of Mr. Carmichael, the ex-Minister for Public Instruction, as Royal Commissioner to conduct an inquiry into the general administration of the Yanco irrigation area. He will also inquire into certain vague charges of corruption made by some settlers against certain officials of the area, in connection with a land transaction.

This is the second piece of work that the ex-Minister has undertaken on behalf of the Government without fee or reward, the first being that of organising the parade of troops.

The Minister for Agriculture and Irrigation announced after the Cabinet meeting that Mr. Carmichael would receive no salary for the work, and would only be paid "out of pocket expenses." "There are to be no fixed fees at all," said Mr. Grahame, "and he has left himself entirely in the hands of the Government.

"He is the most capable man in sight to hold such an inquiry. The most important phase of the inquiry will be as to the administration of the area, and whether there has been corruption or not. The inquiry will occupy about a month."

The appointment is to be gazetted to-day (Tuesday). It is understood that some delay occurred in making the appointment, by reason of the fact that, Mr. Carmichael being a member of Parliament, it was found that he could not legally be paid fees unless he resigned his seat. Evidence will be taken by the Royal Commissioner in Sydney and at Leeton. The appointment of a secretary has been left to Mr. Carmichael.

Speaking further last night in regard to the appointment, Mr. Grahame said:—"The work the commissioner will have to do requires special qualifications, that are not easy to get in any one person. For example, the subject matter for inquiry includes some 10 or 12 industrial business undertakings, such as canning works, joinery and building concerns, butter factory, and so on, of which the finances are at present not at all as satisfactory as we should like, nor are the trading accounts of the stores run by the trust. These require a knowledge of accountancy to investigate properly, and recommend the best method by which they can in future be conducted and run on a proper basis. Then there is the matter of the most economic means of disposing of and marketing the produce of the settlers, a matter in which Mr. Carmichael specially inquired into in Europe, and on several practical phases of which he has but lately reported to the Government. There is the matter of advising as to the general policy to be adopted between the Government and the settlers, as also the relations between the settlers and the officials, requiring a person not only in touch with the Government's ideas and general policy, but also one of considerable organising ability."

FATAL ACCIDENT.

DOG KNOCKS OVER A GUN.

MOLONG, Monday.

Miss Vera Bloomfield, daughter of Mr. G. S. Bloomfield, of Woodleigh, Cumnock, was accidentally shot dead on Sunday. She was inspecting a foxskin which her brother and cousin had secured when out shooting, when a dog rushed by and knocked over a gun which was leaning against a fence, causing it to explode. The full charge entered the girl's abdomen, and she died within 20 minutes.

At yesterday's wool sales 8078 bales were offered, and 6303 bales sold, including 534 bales disposed of privately.

The market ruled very keen, except for faulty lots. Greasies realised to /14½, and scoureds to /23½ per lb.

Last month gold amounting to 39,875 fine ounces were received at the Sydney branch of the Royal Mint, making 191,068 fine ounces, valued at £811,606, since January 1.

AMERICAN FODDER.

STATE IMPORTATIONS.

The Minister for Lands stated yesterday that the 12,000 tons of fodder already ordered by the Government from San Francisco will arrive in instalments during July, August, and September. For wheaten hay £9/5/ per ton c.i.f. is being paid, and Mr. Ashford estimates that it will cost another 30/ per ton to covert it into chaff. He anticipates that this amount will be distributed largely in the metropolitan area. If rain falls he thinks that the scarcity in the north-west will not be acute, as it is to-day.

Wheat will also arrive by the same boats, consigned to the order of the Government.

HIGH PRICES.

MANUFACTURER'S COMPLAINT.

"Commerce" writes:—

Sir,—It becomes more apparent as time goes on that the Government, in fixing prices at a point which leaves no profit to the manufacturer, is really hurting many of its own supporters. Within the last few weeks many tradespeople have had to curtail ordinary credit to customers, these customers being temporarily (we all hope) out of work. In ordinary times with reasonable profits the tradesman can give three or six weeks' credit to customers they know to be honest, but to-day it is not possible to do so. Mr. Hall has stated publicly that, for instance, no credit is to be given by the State in its proposed bread monopoly. Bread is to be obtained only, like postage stamps and tram tickets, for cash on delivery. How many men in the building trade to-day would go hungry under such conditions? I think thousands.

Looking at the matter in a broader way, it seems that the farmer and the baker are to-day carrying most of the "load" entailed under this price-fixing system. Why should this be so? It is now apparent that 70 per cent. of our people, in the city anyway, are not adversely affected by the war, but are enjoying their usual incomes. Why should such people benefit at the expense of a few? They are quite able to pay their way comfortably, whereas now they are helping to make harder the lot of the 30 per cent. not so happily situated, by compelling undue restriction of credit.

A system under which "breadwinners" going to the war could have had their families supplied at cost price would have been acceptable to tradespeople, and have avoided many of the injustices of the present price-fixing scheme.

FIXED PRICE FOR CHAFF.

ALLEGED ANOMALY.

"South Coast Produce Merchant" writes:—

Sir,—Knowing that you are always an advocate for fairplay, I wish to call your attention to the position the South Coast is placed in through the Necessary Commodities Control Commission's action in fixing the price of chaff without providing for a district like ours, where absolutely no hay or chaff is produced.

The commission's proclamation says that, "The price of wheaten and oaten chaff, outside the County of Cumberland and Newcastle district, shall be £7/10/ per ton on rail, and ex store £8 per ton plus cost of carriage into store, while 10 per cent. may be added for retail quantities."

Now, the anomaly of this is that the South Coast, being a non-producer, the produce merchants have to purchase their chaff either from the interior of the State or from Sydney, and, as it is quite impossible at the present to purchase in the interior, or ex rail Sydney, the only available way is to buy ex store Sydney at the price fixed, viz.—£9/1/ per ton. This would cost £9/11/9 per ton in store, at, say, Wollongong, after adding cartage from Sydney store to rail 3/, trainage and loading to Wollongong 4/9, and cartage from Wollongong rail to store 3/; still the proclamation says we shall sell ex rail at £7/10/ per ton and ex store £8. How are we going to do it? Now, from Helensburgh to Wollongong there are many mines in which numbers of horses are engaged for hauling purposes, in addition to which there are a lot of horses used about the towns, and the produce merchants of Wollongong have in the past been supplying these horses with chaff, but now it is impossible to do so.

I think the commission, if they deal fairly with us, should fix the price for Wollongong and South Coast towns at the same price as Sydney, with the cost of conveyance to our towns and a fair percentage of profit added.

SUSSEX-STREET MORALITY.

TRADER IN DEFENCE.

"A.G.G." writes:—

Sir,—At varying times charges and innuendoes have been levelled at Sussex-street firms, whose operations are alleged to be responsible for the present deplorable state of affairs in the foodstuffs markets. In common justice to such firms, I take this opportunity of stating, as manager of a fairly large firm using these commodities, that in all my business dealings I have experienced nothing but honesty and probity with every courtesy and willingness to meet my requirements. Many buyers beside myself are quite willing to simply order goods without reference to prices, knowing we will be treated fairly with regard to the state of the market. I have lately taken the trouble to investigate some of the statements made against Sussex-street firms, and I find that they usually emanate from some buyer who is chronically hard to please if the market is not always to his liking, also to the political propaganda, which is obsessed with the idea that combines and rings, except their own, are responsible for the present state of affairs. Those in the trade know better, and usually treat it with the contempt it deserves, but I think the present an opportunity to defend a much maligned class of traders who are hindered by interference with legitimate trading to the detriment of the consuming public.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Many lines of Eastern produce were scarce yesterday. Freights difficulties stood in the way of bringing the produce down from Japan, Singapore, and Rangoon, and stocks on spot were light. Tapioca had again risen in Singapore. Locally seed was distributing at 20/ per cwt. in sack lots, and medium pearl at 21/. These prices are 1/ advance on previous quotations. Chicory was advanced ½d per lb, and sold at /6½. Rice was in fair supply at unchanged rates. Rice has been bought in Japan for Sydney, but it has been found impossible to ship it yet. Haricot beans were very scarce, selling up to 17/ per bushel. Split peas were unchanged at late hight rates, 27/6 to 27/9 per cwt.

Oatmeals were in exceedingly great demand. The dearness of meat seems to be sending people to a greater consumption of the meals. Rates were unaltered. The Chilian oats recently imported are a fine grain and very bold. It needs, however, careful cleaning. Samples of oats have also been procured from Washington, California, Canada, and Japan. Not one of these, however, was of average quality, and none was suitable for milling. All were very thin. The Canadian Director of Agriculture wrote that the Canadian crop, owing to dry weather at a critical time, had been poor, and that the best grain had gone to supply the European demand.

In the metal market the prices of most commodities were disorganised. Lead was still quoted from day to day, and then only subject to acceptance of the order. The price was £1 higher than on Friday, sheet lead in full rolls selling at £31/10/. Galvanised iron ruled at the increased rates noted on Saturday. Wire nails were quoted to the retailers at 5 per cent. on list for ton lots, and 7½ per cent. on list for smaller quantities. This represents an increase of 1/6 per cwt. Black wire, No. 8 gauge, had parcel sales at £15. This was at the same rate as for a distributing lot. Galvanised piping advanced about 15 per cent., and was quoted 30 per cent. off list for parcels, and 27½ per cent. off list to the retailers.

In the oil market there was an advance of 30/ per ton in the convention price of whitelead, it being quoted at £35 per ton f.o.b. Locally Champion's had sales of parcels at £44/10/ and £45, altogether about 20 tons changing hands at about these figures. In the afternoon no one was found willing to quit under £46. The landed price on yesterday's London quotation would be in the vicinity of £47. Linseed oil was unchanged at 4/6 and 4/8 for small lots.

There was a good demand from the country for cornsacks for season's delivery, and many sales were booked at 7/7½ net to rails. Branbags for immediate despatch were quoted 6/ net, and woolpacks at from 3/4 to 3/4½ net.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 89 tons of wheat and 112 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

Salted and unsalted 138/, exceptionally 140/ per cwt. New Zealand 142/ per cwt; cheese, white 92/, coloured 97/ per cwt."

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

The butter situation continued to be extremely grave yesterday. A whole sheaf of orders remained unfulfilled, merchants finding it absolutely impossible to place them. One grocer complained—and his case may be taken as typical of many—that, where a few months back he received 10 boxes of butter per week, he now only receives one. Of course, on such a basis it is impossible for grocers to supply their customers, and the course they have adopted is to serve with butter only those who take their regular list of groceries, and even these are put on short rations.

New-laid eggs were rather slow of sale, and only a few extra choice lots brought the top price of last week—2/5. The ruling rates were 2/3 to 2/4. Case eggs continued in good demand, brisk sales being made at recent levels.

A scramble again ensued for cheese, limited consignments of which arrived. Stocks cleared rapidly, and late-comers had little chance of securing any supplies whatsoever.

The market was loaded with northern honey, but choice western was scarce, and sold at best rates.

Quotations were:—

HOMEBUSH STOCK MARKET.

SHEEP.

ALL GRADES HIGHER.

Something approaching record prices were obtained at yesterday's Homebush sales, values being close to the rates which ruled during the drought year of 1902. Certainly they were the highest for very many years past. The market was excited and the bidding spirited, everything being readily sold. The advance all round was 2/ to 3/ on Thursday's rates for practically all descriptions. Good to prime advanced solidly from 2/ to 3/, whilst some extra prime specially heavy brought prices which actually indicated an advance of from 4/ to 5/.

The supply was particularly light, only 9612 sheep, including lambs, being listed from 34 consignors, and 8110 were penned. The consignment included a draft of 2000 from Wingadee station, Coonamble, and another lot of 1000 from Mr. W. H. Carter, Uralla, the balance being mainly in lots of 100, 200, 300, 400, and 500, from different parts. The penning was of medium quality generally, but included occasional lots of prime. There was a good attendance of buyers, the weather conditions being perfect.

Included in the principal sales were:—Crossbred wethers from D. A. W. Sellar (Cooma) to 28/1; crossbred hoggets from J. Lawson (Tamworth) to 29/9; wethers from Wingadee station (Coonamble) to 28/9; crossbred wethers to 35/9; crossbred wethers from J. K. and W. H. Mackay (Cryon) to 36/; wethers from the estat of the late J. H. Davies (Scone) to 37/; crossbred wethers from W. G. Baile, (Singleton) to 34/3; crossbred ewes from A. Hoad (Bendick Morell) to 32/3.

About a hundred old ewes, which should not in ordinary circumstances be on the market, realised 5/1 each. A pen of 15 crossbred ewes brought £2/2/6 each. Buyers expected to see an advanced market, but not to the extent it proved to be. There are only some 12,000 sheep to come forward for the next sale, instead of the usual average of 25,000 to 30,000. This fact operated largely in the great rise that took place.

Quotations: Prime merino w to 29/, extra prime up to 37/, good merino w to 19/, prime merino e 19/ to 22/, good merino e 15/ to 17/6, medium 12/ to 14/, prime woolly crossbred w and h 28/ to 31/6, extra prime to 35/9, good woolly crossbred w and h up to 34/6, medium woolly crossbred w and h 14/ to 16/6, prime woolly crossbred e to 30/, extra prime woolly crossbred e to 32/3, a few to 42/6, good woolly crossbred e to 19/6, medium woolly crossbred e to 16/.

LAMBS

Lambs (in very light supply) were sold with the sheep, and participated in the general rise.

CATTLE.

GENERALLY DEARER.

With 1906 cattle listed for yesterday sales, and 1960 head yarded from 99 consignors, the market was lightly supplied so far as numbers were concerned, and the general average quality was none too good. The consignments came mainly from the northern, Hunter River, and coastal districts, with occasional lots from the west and south. The yardings included a moderate representation of prime, medium-weight, and heavy bullocks, also bandy-weight bullocks and steers, as well as occasional yards of prime yearlings. The cows and heifers included a sprinkling of prime and occasional yards of extra prime but medium, plain, and inferior descriptions, with rough bullocks, steers, and bulls, considerably preponderated. It was a medium yarding, and below the usual standard.

There was a very large attendance of buyers on the market, and competition was keen for practically all descriptions. Prime meat showed a general rise of from 15/ to £1 per head, while for lower grades the rise was from 5/ to 10/ during the early sales. This tone was further improved during the afternoon, values in some instances showing an advance of fully 30/ for good to prime quality cattle, while other descriptions also advanced to 10/ to 15/ above last day's rulings. Taking the market as a whole, it was generally about £1 dearer.

Included in the principal sales was a line of 21 bullocks on account of —. Taylor (Turanville), which reached £16/10/, and averaged £15/14/9. Another line of eleven cattle was sold on behalf of R. Jenkins. The bullocks (6) reached £21/7/, averaging £19/4/, and the cows (4) realised £4/18/.

On behalf of Chaffey Bros., West Tamworth, six bullocks reached £34, and averaged £30/1/8. For J. O. Jones (Kendall) seven bullocks reached £18/12/, averaging £17/4/10. Thirteen bullocks, on behalf of R. W. Allson (Dungog) reached £19/11/, and averaged £18/10/11. Eight prime bullocks sent by Mrs. M. P. Dangar reached £34/10/, and averaged £32/12/11. On behalf of C. Middleton (Dungog), three bullocks sold at £23/11/.

Quotations.—Prime heavy bullocks, up to £34; odd extra, to £34/10/; yards of prime medium-weight bullocks and steers, to £21; yards of prime handy-weight bullocks and steers, to £11/10/; yards of prime light bullocks and steers, to £14/10/; yards of good bullocks and steers, to £12; yards of good light steers, to £9/10/; yards of medium and light steers, to £8; yards of inferior, lower; yards of prime cows and heifers, to £13/5/; yards of good cows and heifers, to £11; yards of medium cows and heifers, to £8; yards of inferior, to £6. Best light beef, to 51/; prime heavy beef, to 47/; good beef, 35/6; medium beef, to 30/ per 100lb; inferior, lower.

HAMPDEN-CLONCURRY MINES.

BRIGHTER PROSPECTS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The half-yearly meeting of the Hampden-Cloncurry Copper Mines, Ltd., was held today. Mr. J. L. Wharton presided. In moving the adoption of the reports, the chairman said, having regard to the highly satisfactory prices now ruling for copper, it was intended to increase the monthly output. This could be achieved by slightly increasing the recent average extractions from the Hampden and Duchess mines, and drawing 70 to 80 tons per day from the Macgregor and Wallaroo mines. In order to give early effect to this policy, an additional blower had been installed, and the work of enlarging the number two furnace put in hand. This furnace when finished would have a capacity of from 280 to 300 tons per day. An extraction of 300 tons per day was above the present developed capacity of the mines, and could not be maintained over a lengthy period. But it was intended to pursue an active policy of development, and continue extractions at approximately the rate indicated, so long as the conditions permitted, and the price of copper justified. The high price of copper had materially improved the finances since the close of the half-year. The average realised during the past three months had been £76 per ton, and that had resulted in a profit on working account totalling some £50,000. The maintenance of these or better conditions would quickly improve the financial position as to permit of the resumption of dividends. From present indications, he was justified in stating that they would resume the payment of dividends in August next.

Replying to questions, the chairman said that there was no difficulty in selling the copper. The cost of the mineral separation plant would depend on its size, but probably it would be decided to install equipment capable of treating 200 tons per day, which might cost £40,000, or slightly over. The reports were adopted.

BRIGHTER MARKET.

COPPER AND TIN SOUND.

BARRIERS QUIET BUT FIRM.

The moods of the market are various and changeable. Last week's record, especially at the finish, was such that nine out of every operators calculated on the new week opening slack. Hence it was a matter of surprise to them that at the opening call buyers seemed to be more plentiful than usual on a Monday.

Telegrams from Melbourne indicated a steady market at the opening call of the Exchange of that city, and half an hour later the Adelaide Exchange also announced a steady market. This confirmation of the position locally had a strengthening effect on local operators, so that at High 'Change there was a visible improvement in buying offers, which resulted in an unusually good volume of business at sound prices.

The copper section was represented by firm sales of Hampden and Cloncurry, Mount Morgans, and Mount Lyells, whilst improved offers for Wallaroo and Moonta and Mount Cuthbert failed to draw sellers. Weak offers for Mammoth Copper were met by wide quotations on the part of scrip-holders. In other words, if the buying offer was intended to discredit the stock, the seller countered the intention with a wide quota.

Tin propositions commanded a lot of attention, and the transactions recorded in the leading Eastern stocks disclosed a steady market. There were some exceptions, as for instance in Malay Corporation and Deebook Dredging.

The feature in the gold section was the large number of Black Range West that changed hands from 4/3 to 5/, on the strength of the following telegram from the manager: "No. 3 south drive, reef 12 inches, very good quality, obtained very rich specimens, deposited 53lb weight in bank." Business was also done in Edna May at £8/18/, and Mount Davids at 2d—undoubtedly the long and short of market values. Though the volume of trade decreased considerably during the afternoon, the reverse was the case with the prices realised. Indeed, it was the other way about. Possibly the limited business was due to the two factors, that operators had already executed their commissions, or scrip-holders had raised their limits. Anyhow, the close of the day's proceedings was a big contrast to the listlessness that prevailed nearly every day the previous week. Black Range West was the piece de resistance during the afternoon.

MINING NOTES.

The managing director of the Buckland River Gold-dredging Company reports that the dredge worked 271 hours for a yield of 87oz of gold.

Both the electric plants of the Pioneer Tin-mining Company (Tas.) sluiced steadily during the fortnight ended June 5. The rainfall was 85 points, and the water supply good. There was also a good supply of water on the Argonaut leases, where sluicing was carried on steadily during the same fortnight.

The Central Tin-mining Company (Renison Bell, Tasmania) has ceased operations temporarily in order to instal a new engine and boiler, and a pump to lift water for the mill from the Argent River. This is necessary owing to the existing supply having failed. A call was made upon the shareholders to provide funds for the purchase of the machinery mentioned, the installation of which is expected to be completed within a month. The manager states he will then be in a position to more than double the output of tin oxide.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The extensive high pressure which covered the continent on Saturday has travelled about 900 miles eastward during the 48 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday, and has lost one-tenth in barometric values. The centre at present covers the greater part of New South Wales.

A very promising looking disturbance covers most of Western Australia. It is centrally situated to the south-west of the Leeuwin, and extends northwards to the tropics and westward to the South Australian border. This disturbance has caused unsettled weather throughout the western State, with more or less general rains.

The Antarctic disturbance over the the Tasman Sea has now practically passed away.

The conditions at present point to fine weather throughout, with many fogs and frosts, but unsettled weather, with rain, should affect the western districts within two or three days.

Ocean Forecast.—Strongly northerly gales along the western coast of Western Australia; fresh south-easterly on the southern Queensland coast, freshening north-westerly in Bass Strait.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The V.R.C. stipendiary stewards concluded the inquiry to-day into the running of Tongio in the Maiden Hurdle Race at Williamstown on Saturday. Oscillate was sold at auction to-day to Mr. W. J. Spring for 130 guineas, and Cross Bairn to Mr. C. Forrester for 60 guineas.

Jimmy Roche, of America, and Australian Reg. Delaney met in a return contest at the Olympia Stadium last night. Weights were:—Delaney, 9st 13½lb; Roche, 9st 7lb. From the start of hostilities the American hung on to his opponent, while Delaney endeavoured to release himself. In the fifth round the referee cautioned Delaney that a further breach of the rules would bring about his disqualification. The American continued his tactics, and in the sixth Delaney was declared the winner.

George Prentice compelled Charlie Scott to retire in the second round of the opening preliminary contest; and the second, between Charlie Kay and Al. Cullen, ended in a draw, after six rounds.

AMUSEMENTS.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

Owing to a slight hoarseness, from which Miss Gladys Moncrieff was suffering, changes were necessitated in the cast of "Ma Mie Rosette." The name-part fell to Miss Pearl Ladd, who looked particularly well in the fair make up of the "bucolic Venus" so scorned by Corisande, and Miss Katie May proved aristocratic as the slighted and revengeful countess. "Ma Mie Rosette" will be staged for the last time to-night, as "The Pirates of Penzance" will be revived to-morrow afternoon and evening.

TOWN HALL PATRIOTIC CONCERT.

A patriotic concert in aid of the Polish and Servian Funds, and our wounded Australian soldiers, was given at the Town Hall last night, under the auspices of the Railway and Tramway Patriotic display committee. Miss Esther Kahn arranged the programme, and, generally, the evening proved enjoyable. Miss Esther Kahn brought forward a particularly interesting item in honour of our fallen heroes, in giving for the first time in Sydney "Nenia," a funeral song by the late Giovanni Sgambati. The career of this distinguished composer, whose death occurred at Rome in December last, does not appear to be familiar to concert-goers here. Unlike most Italian composers, he had never written an opera, but devoted his attention to purely instrumental music. He was a friend of Wagner, and brought forth a warm eulogy from Liszt. Sgambati's subsequent career proved that Liszt had not estimated his talents too highly. Mr. W. J. Coad contributed to the programme Saint Saens' "Le Cygne," played with the requisite tenderness, and Habay's "The Zephyr." Mr. Alfred Shea sang, with organ accompaniment Lambert's "She is Far from the Land," which, though now the most popular of the composer's songs, had to wait years for publication. Mr. Wrenn Sutton sang "The Arethusa," an old English song, by William Shield, modernised. Others assisting during the evening included Signors Lucia Ferrari, Misses Millie Wynne, Lilian Gibson, Lilian Frost, Messrs. Charles Larsen, and Carl Gotch.

MISS EVA PASCOE'S RECITAL.

A violinist with strength of tone, and a resolute attack in difficult passages correctly rendered, was revealed in the person of Miss Eva Pascoe last night. This young player, who came here from Christchurch to enter the Cyril Monk studio, made her debut at the Southern Cross Hall, where her style showed her to especial advantage in the third and fourth movements of Cesar Franck's famous "Sonata in A for Violin and Piano." The former of these two constitutes a big thing in the sonata literature of these instruments, and the latter is a truly beautiful classic. Miss Pascoe, who was associated with Mr. Frank Hutchens, a well-known exponent of Franck's music, showed herself quite equal to the florid prelude-like passages for violin which, in alternation with phrases of poignant sadness, characterise the movement. Her style is serviceable, but too much inclined to roughness. However, in the familiar last movement, the flowing grace which so wins the heart was expressed with considerable sympathy of tone. Mention should also be made of Liszt's "Liebestraum" (transcribed by Cyril Monk), in which Miss Pascoe's largeness of tone gave significance to the melody. The double stopping was sometimes a little bit harsh, but it was correct, and the cadenza, admirably played, showed the possession of a well-advanced technique. After Kreisler's "Schon Rosmarin" valse there was much enthusiasm, and the player was presented with bouquets of red roses. Various other violin numbers were contributed with success. Mr. Hutchens rendered with sparkling charm Henselt's "Si oiseau j'étais" and other pieces; whilst Mr. Nelson Illingworth, besides bringing forward compositions of merit by Alfred Hill, impressed the audience by a sterling interpretation of Schubert's fine song "The Abode," which suits his voice, and may often be heard with pleasure. Mr. Walter Thorman and Mr. Cyril Monk were the accompanists of the evening.

FATE OF THE EMDEN.

Recently the Cocos Island Film Syndicate secured a moving pictures film of the Emden and scenes on Cocos Island, and under the auspices of the Millions Club of New South Wales this was screened for the first time in public at the Strand Theatre, Pitt-street, Sydney, yesterday. A steamer was chartered specially to secure the pictures, which include portraits of the Emden and her officers prior to the engagement, and the Sydney, her commander (Captain Glossop), officers, and crew. The cinema party brought back many relics of the Emden, and these are on view in the vestibule of the theatre. The film will be shown at the continuous sessions of the Strand throughout the week.

"THE TEMPEST."

Two interesting papers on "The Tempest" were read by Miss Manning and Mrs. Meares-Mitchell before the members of the Shakespeare Society of New South Wales last evening. The subject of Miss Manning's paper was Prospero, and after touching on the idea that Shakespeare's own character and nature were pourtrayed in "Hamlet" and "The Tempest," she compared the one with the other, and drew a picture of Prospero in his mature years. She considers that if Prospero represented Shakespeare then Shakespeare was a wonderful man. Mrs. Meares-Mitchell's paper referred to Ferdinand and Miranda, and the picture she drew of the lovers particularly showed that lovers of all times were the same.

OLD King Cole
Was a Satisfied Soul;
And he said to his fiddlers three:
"You may now retire,
For my 'REX' PORK and BEANS
Are pleasure enough for me."
Leave it to any man. Serve to-day or to-night a plate of

REX PORK AND BEANS,

and what he decides we are prepared to accept. Will you?

There are many reasons why men like REX PORK AND BEANS. They are nutty, mellow, and well-cooked beans, put up in tins ready to serve with prime dairy-fed pork.

Every member of the family will eat them with zest, and last, but not least, you will find them easy to serve. Simply immerse the tin in boiling water for 10 or 15 minutes.

Sold by all Grocers.

WE CLEAN AND DYE SOILED DRESSES, ETC.

Ladies who are anxious to save money on their dress needs will find our service a real aid to economy.

Doubtless you have many garments in your wardrobe, which you have thrown aside as useless.

Why not pick them out, and let us clean or dye them so that they will be fit for service again?

We take particular care with all garments, and our work gives satisfaction.

Our moderate prices will please you, and help you understand the economy of our service.
Shall we send you our free booklet on "Cleaning and Dyeing." It will interest you.

"CLEVER MARY" WILL KEEP YOUR SHOP CLEAN.

Butchers, smallgoodsmen, refreshment-room owners, confectioners, waitresses, and others should use "Clever Mary."
It will enable you to clean your marble tables, scales, woodwork, glassware, paintwork, counters, etc., spotlessly clean, with the least trouble.
You will find "Clever Mary" unsurpassed, too, for cleaning aprons and shop coats, and for removing grease, grime, pot-black, oil, and dirt from the hands. It cannot harm the tenderest skin.
Get a tin of "Clever Mary" to-day. You'll be delighted with it. If not in stock at your storekeeper's, try it at our expense. Send your name and a free sample tin will be sent you by The Paget Manufacturing Co., 109 Regent-street, Sydney, who also make Sinoleum.

CLEVER MARY,
"THE ENEMY OF GREASE."

HAVE YOU A HOT-HOUSE IN YOUR GARDEN?

THE RIGHT SYSTEM OF HEATING IS NOT EXPENSIVE.
When the "Ideal" System of Hot-House Heating Service is installed it gives satisfaction all the time, causes no worries, and is decidedly economical.
Many make-shift methods have been used through lack of information regarding the up-to-date "Ideal" Boilers and equipment.
The wrong kind requires constant attention, and is a continual source of needless fuel expense, whereas the Ideal Boilers need no brickwork, which usually cracks and crumbles; and are self-regulating by means of the Regotherm for heat and Automatic Damper Regulator for fuel.
There is also a wrong and right kind of piping for hot water. Our four-inch Cast Iron Piping is specially constructed for the purpose, having a perfect jointing for hot water.
IDEAL BOILERS FROM £3/15/ UPWARDS.
We have also smaller Gas-heated Boilers for small green-houses. Call or write for further information, which we will gladly furnish.

TWO KINDS OF SHOPPING.

There is the kind where you shop in a crowd, get bumped and hustled about, and, finally, in desperation, you purchase an article that is not just the one you require, and that never afterwards satisfies you, no matter how good it may really be.

Then there is the shopping that appeals to every lady who has to spend considerable time over the selection of goods for the boys of her family. The kind where there is plenty of room, courteous attendants, a big stock to select from, and away from the bustle of other departments. That is the "Gowing" kind, where every clothing necessity for a boy or youth can be found on the one big, roomy floor. Come and inspect our new stocks of
